CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST PATROLMAN

Mayor Will Give Hearing on Charges Preferred by Supt. Welch—Low Death Rate

Supt. Welch of the police department has preferred charges against Patrolman Arthur Drewett for violation of rule 19 of the police manual, and the mayor has ordered a hearing to be held before him at city hall on next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Whether the hearing will be private or public is left to the accused patrolman to decide.

Lowell's Mortality

The death rate for this week as reported by the board of health is 16.63 as against 20.51 for the past week and 17.12 for the week previous. The total number of deaths reported during the week was 31. Deaths under five, 17; infectious diseases, 5; acute lung diseases, 2; diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 1; tuberculosis, 1.

The infectious diseases reported during the week were as follows: Diphtheria, 5; typhoid fever, 4; membranous croup, 1; measles, 15; infantile paralysis, 1 and tuberculosis, 1.

What—Again?

The plastering in Memorial building is completed and in a few days the walls will be in shape for the hanging of the Philippoteaux war paintings purchased by the city. In about ten days the old plastering in the city library, which was water-soaked, will be removed and it will be but a short time before the building is reopened again. The Memorial building is now fireproof, the wooden flooring and lathes having been replaced by steel flooring and lathes, while a large portion of the quartered

British Naval Auxiliary Sunk in North Sea—Commander and 22 Men Lost—80 Saved

LONDON, Aug. 26, 2:35 p. m.—The torpedoing in the North sea of a British naval auxiliary with the loss of 23 men, was announced officially today.

Eighty-seven men were saved. The announcement bearing the name of the British naval auxiliary was torpedoed and sunk in the North sea on Thursday by an enemy submarine. The commander and 22 men were lost. Eleven officers and 76 ratings were saved.

The British merchant steamer Duke of Albany, which probably is the craft alluded to in the official statement, was a vessel of 1937 tons gross, built in 1907, and owned in Glasgow.

several hours today as a result of a freight wreck. An east bound freight train was derailed at a switch near the Waltham station to prevent a collision with an approaching westbound freight on the Watertown branch. The engine took the derails but the tender and three cars were swung sideways across the tracks, tearing up rails, disarranging the automobile switching system and blocking all traffic. No one was hurt.

hospitality and the company employees who gathered at Canobie from the three principal cities along the Merrimack valley anticipated a splendid day. The committee in charge saw that their anticipations were realized and there wasn't a dull moment in the whole day.

The outing was scheduled to open at 10 o'clock. The Lowell delegation left this city on the 9:15 o'clock car and hence were a little late in arriving. A splendid program of sports was arranged by the committee which had attractions for all employees. These included a rival ball game between the Lowell and Framingham divisions, a ladies' ball game between the operators of Lowell and Lawrence, a 100-yard dash for men, a fat men's race and a tug of war. For the girls there were a 50-yard dash, a three-legged race and a potato race. Besides the sports there were many other attractions including the water, dancing, bowling, etc.

The big feature of the day was a dinner served in the big dining room in the pavilion shortly after noon. Over 400 were present of whom 125 were from Lowell.

The committee in charge consisted of the following: Thomas Delaney, president of the chapter; Benjamin J. Mahoney, district plant chief; C. E. Grover, district manager; F. A. Wilson, traffic chief; F. J. Healey, revenue accountant.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONT

While Resisting Allied Advance Along Somme the Germans are Launching Strong Attacks in Other Sectors—Penetrate the French Trenches in Champagne—Attacks Repulsed, Says Paris—Bulgars Defeat Serbs

The Bulgarians have attacked and captured the Greek fort of Startila, after killing its commander, Changas, and the entire garrison which offered spirited resistance, says a Saloniki despatch to the Matin. The despatch is dated August 23, and was delayed.

Fierce Fighting

While determinedly resisting the allied advance on the Somme front in northern France, the Germans are launching strong attacks in other sectors of the western battle line, the latest offensive movement reported being in the Champagne region.

Penetrated French Positions

Near Tahure, in the Champagne, is the scene of some of the heaviest fighting in the French offensive since September. German troops last night charged French positions and succeeded in penetrating them. Subsequently they were driven out, Paris declares. This attack was followed quickly by an assault by the Germans on the point of the St. Michel salient, southeast of Verdun, which the French repelled by a counter attack, and was carried out simultaneously with the attacks in the region of Verdun itself and along the Somme front.

Heavy Bombardment

At Verdun, the point selected for the offensive movement was that northeast of the fortress between Floury and Thiaumont, where the French scored their recent advance. The Germans, although they subjected the French lines to a heavy bombardment before the assault, were unable to make any gain, according to Paris.

Germans Again Repulsed

On the Somme, the German counter thrust was directed at Hill 121, near Maurepas, past which village the French have hammered their way in the attempt to envelop Clercy and clear the road north of the river to Peronne. This attack also was repulsed, the Paris bulletin declares.

Important Victory for Bulgars

Sofia reports an important victory over the Serbians on the Bulgarian right wing and announces that on the other flank the Bulgarians have reached the Greek Aegean coast.

Rumania Rushes War Plans

Balkan political developments are being followed with intense interest, particularly the attitude of Rumania. Despatches today indicate further military preparations by this kingdom, including an increase of the extraordinary credit for the army by 200,000,000 francs.

Russians Checked

Vienna claims the checking of Russian attempts to advance in the Carpathians toward the Hungarian border, but Petrograd asserts that further gains in this region have been made by the Russians.

On the remainder of the eastern front the Russians have attempted few aggressive movements recently and the situation is unchanged in its essentials.

The Austrian war office also reports the lessening of the pressure which the Italians recently have been exerting in the Dolomite region on the Austro-Italian front.

The British admiralty announces the torpedoing of a British naval auxiliary in the North sea involving the loss of 23 men.

MEETING TO PROTEST AGAINST OCCUPATION OF GREEK TERRITORY BY BULGARS

SALONIKI, Aug. 26, via Paris.—A large popular meeting was held here last night to protest against the occupation of Greek territory by Bulgarians. It was followed by a demonstration for Venizelos and the singing of the national hymn. The crowd then marched to the headquarters of Gen. Sarrail, the entente commander and sang the "Marseillaise." A formal protest against the Bulgarian occupation was drawn up and left with the prefect of police.

Despatches from Athens say the government is much concerned about the liberal party manifestation which is being organized for Sunday and threatens to hold counter demonstrations of supporters of the king.

SPANISH PARTY APPROVES PORTUGAL'S INTERVENTION IN WAR

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The national convention of the Spanish reformist party, says a Havas despatch from Oviedo has decided to send a commission headed by Melquiades Alvarez, the reformist leader, to Lisbon to express the party's approval of Portugal's intervention in the war. The commission, the despatch adds, will then proceed to Paris to give the entente allies assurance of Spanish sympathies. The convention decided also to begin a campaign in favor of closer relations between Spain and the entente powers.

TY COBB TO UNDERGO OPERATION

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Ty Cobb, crack outfielder of the Detroit club, will undergo an operation after the close of the baseball season this fall for the removal of his tonsils, he said today. Cobb explained that he attributed several weakening colds which have troubled him recently to bad tonsils.

PRES. WILSON STILL HOPES TO AVERT BIG STRIKE

Regards Situation as Serious—Officials Work on New Proposal—Men's Leaders Busy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The threatened railway strike situation took on added tenseness today as the railway executives continued their deliberations over the form of their counter proposal to President Wilson's plan and the brotherhood leaders awaited the next move.

The executives have been told that the men's leaders expect difficulty in restraining them after tonight. The presidents worked steadily all morning and the fore part of the afternoon, carefully preparing their statement to President Wilson but shortly after noon had taken no final vote on it.

As has been outlined unofficially it declines to concede the eight hour day without arbitration and investigation of its application to railroad, but makes some concessions as to collateral issues.

The effect of the executives' counter proposal will be to pass the issue back to the brotherhoods, and the outlook is variously described by those in touch with the negotiations. Some of the railway executives say their proposition is positively their last; some of the men's leaders stand firmly against arbitration. Others on both sides have hopes that out of it will come further negotiations to delay the strike and possibly avert it.

A statement issued by the Federal board of mediation today on the settlements it had conducted was regarded as significant. It described a report about to be made to the senate, which will disclose that in every case of settlements conducted under the old Erdman act of the later Newlands law substantial advantages have been won by the employees through arbitration. The only instance recorded where the men did not benefit was a settlement made without the participation of the Federal mediators.

President Wilson regards the situation as serious but has not given up hope of a settlement. He will continue to use every effort to bring both sides together.

Secretary Lane, formerly a member of the Interstate Commerce commission has kept in close touch with the negotiations and conferred today with the president.

WASHBURN WINS MATCH

WON MEADOW CLUB SINGLES TENNIS CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP FROM CLOTHIER

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Watson M. Washburn of New York won the Meadow club singles tennis cup championship here today by defeating William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, former national champion in the final match of the tournament. The score was 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Washburn won the contest through more effective play at the base line and the net. He out-volleyed Clothier, sharp cross cut strokes and fast drives down the lines placing the veteran at his mercy. Washburn's pronounced weakness was overhead, his strokes in this department of ten finding the net. Clothier made his best bid for honors in the second set, but a volley of placement points by Washburn in the last games ended his hopes. In the last set Clothier was cleanly outplayed. Washburn was winner of the tournament a year ago.

ANOTHER FISH STORY

A party of 35 citizens of Danvers under the supervision of Daniel Fox, enjoyed a deep sea fishing trip at Swampscott Thursday. The party left the neighboring town at 6 a. m. in an automobile truck and returned to their respective homes late in the evening. The fishermen spent a most enjoyable day aboard Capt. Healey's sail boat and returned with a big catch.

HEARING ON THE B. & M.

RAILROAD'S FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES WILL BE DISCUSSED TUESDAY

BOSTON, August 26.—The Boston and Maine railroad's financial difficulties will be discussed in the United States district court here next Tuesday, Judge William L. Putnam having sent word from his summer home at Mount Kineo, Me., today that he had issued an order of hearing on that date for a hearing in connection with equity proceedings looking to receivership for the road.

It is understood the hearing will embrace all pending proceedings in the case. To date, these include a creditors' petition for a receiver filed by the Intercontinental Rubber company of New Jersey, a note holder, a similar plea by Edward L. Seales of New York, who owns bonds of the company and a petition in opposition by Francis V. Streeter of Medford, a minority stockholder. It was considered probable also that a counsel for Concord and Montreal and Connecticut River railroads, lines under lease to the Boston and Maine would enter an appearance in the case.

THE HURDY GURDY BOYS

YOUNG MEN SINGING AND SELLING SONGS TO PAY WAY TO GOLDEN GATE

Charles Coleman, Louis Schaeffer, Charles E. Mason and Hermann Gilbert, of New York, who are known as the Hurdy Gurdy boys they have appeared on the vaudeville stage for several years, are spending a few days in Lowell on their transcontinental trip. New York to San Francisco on a wage of $20.00.

The young men are possessed of rare voices and never fail to attract attention. The Harmony Singing club of New York wagers that the boys could make the trip across the continent solely on the proceeds of songs which are sold in the street.

The quartet secured an automobile and a hurdy gurdy and started off with 500 copies of three songs, namely: "Your Mother Is Your Best Friend After All," "Where Is My Mamma?" and "You're the Sweetest Little Girl I Ever Knew." There is no limit to the time that they reach San Francisco, the only stipulation being that they have got to pay all their expenses from the sale of the compositions. They have traveled through a portion of New York state, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts and spent a little time in every city and town of any size.

Last night the boys entertained several hundred people in Jackson street near the corner of Central street with their songs and found ready purchasers. The young men have been on the vaudeville stage for some time appearing in dancing and singing turns. Gilbert is a cousin of Wolfe Gilbert, a well known song composer.

BLIND, BUT THEY KNOW WORLD'S DOINGS, THANKS TO SOCIETY WOMEN'S READINGS

One of the most interesting of New York charities is depicted herewith. It shows Mrs. G. F. Gould, well known in society, reading to the inmates of the Home For Destitute Blind. It really puts many seeing women to shame to discuss the topics of the day with these blind women, for they are "up" in anything in the way of current events, and they can discuss the changes in the map of Europe with accuracy and fluency. As for political gossip, civic welfare and the many other subjects which appear in the dailies and magazines, they are freely discussed by these blind women. Every morning Mrs. Gould and several other ladies spend hours at the home reading aloud the news. While they read aloud the "eyes" (fingers) of the sightless men and women are busily engaged in their daily work, caning chairs, knitting, sewing, crocheting, etc.

THEY DO SAY

That dimes and quarters burn up the dollar bills.
That the boys are waiting for the next party.
That the chap who laughs last also laughs alone.
That it is not often you find a poet with a punch.
That any fool ought to be able to see through a ladder.
That the quick, cheap lunch is no longer quick or cheap.

That eggs are five cents apiece. Curses on the war.

That the amateur gardeners are hurrying their crops.

That the A.O.H. visitors were much impressed with Lowell.

That the O.M.I. Cadets had a great time at camp this week.

That local semi-professional teams would draw even larger crowds to their games if they would cut the rough stuff and play straight baseball.

That when you have a little cold that you think will last a day or two, it isn't very comforting to have a reputable physician declare you have hay fever.

That the delegates to the A. O. H. convention did not care much for the free out-of-town newspapers left on their chairs at the banquet Tuesday evening.

That one of the reasons why Lowell's alleys and other places are not as clean as they might be is because the number of garbage wagons remains the same year after year.

That Hon. John E. Drury had a narrow escape from serious injury in falling upon an oil soaked street as he stepped from a car. As it was he suffered abrasions on the face and had a suit of clothes destroyed.

That Congressman Gardner continues to get his 'C' grade. It is to him in Lowell, but the way Secretary Daniels slammed him at Millbury, Me., last evening would make even Ty Cobb sit up and take notice.

BRITISH AIR RAID

German Airship Sheds in Vicinity of Namur Bombarded

LONDON, Aug. 26.—British aeroplanes have made another dash over Belgium, on this occasion penetrating to the vicinity of Namur, 36 miles southeast of Brussels and bombarding German airship sheds. One aeroplane was missing. An official account of these operations was issued here today as follows:

Early Friday morning an attack was carried out by naval aeroplanes upon enemy airship sheds near Namur. The sheds were successfully bombarded and two of them were hit, but due to low lying clouds it was not possible to observe the amount of damage done. One of our machines failed to return.

WHY BRITISH FAILED

COMMISSIONERS TO INQUIRE INTO DARDANELLES AND MESO-POTAMIAN CAMPAIGNS

To find out why the Dardanelles and Mesopotamian campaigns resulted so disastrously for Great Britain, the British government has appointed two commissioners to make investigation. Lord George Hamilton heads the body which is looking into the Mesopotamian failure, while Lord Cromer is chief investigator into the reasons for the abandonment of the Dardanelles attack.

BOXING, GOLF
AND ATHLETICSPRATT A WONDERFUL SECOND
BASEMAN, SAYS VETERAN

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—"Talk about second basemen! Show me one in the American league who has anything on Pratt of the St. Louis Browns," said a veteran pitcher to Fielder Jones recently. "Pratt is there every second. He covers as much if not more ground than Barry of the Red Sox," continued the veteran. "If I were a manager of a team and had a chance to grab either Pratt or Barry I would prefer the former. He is one of the best the American league has produced," concluded the veteran.

GREAT YEAR FOR CULLOP

YANKEE STAR PITCHER HAS
RUNG UP 13 VICTORIES AND
SUFFURED ONE DEFEAT

If the Yankees could depend on Nick Cullop to use his left-handed persuasion in their behalf every day, Manager Bill Donovan would not be unduly concerned over the matter of the six games that now separate his club from first place. The former Federal leaguer has not only pitched with great effectiveness this season, but he has had the rare good fortune to always get support from the club. Cullop is now setting sail for an unusual distinction in pitching. If he can continue at his present rate through the remaining weeks of the campaign he will undoubtedly emerge as the champion pitcher of both leagues, as far as a winning percentage is concerned, if not for real effectiveness in the matter of runs scored per inning.

When Nick set the Chicago White Sox down at the Polo grounds in New York it was his thirteenth victory for the season against one defeat. It was also the fourth time he had tossed a defeat into the teeth of Rowland's men without drawing a loss, so that, as a nemesis he splits it fifty-fifty with Eddie Cicotte.

Cullop has not been ranked as a real star. In fact this is the first year he ever drew any particular attention. One season hardly entitles him to rank with Johnson or Graver and Alexander, whose record for 13 shutouts sets a new mark for the boys to shoot at.

But to have trailed into the latter part of August with 13 victories and only one defeat gives Nick a distinction which few players ever achieve. It is a rare feat, considering that Cullop has been worked in his regular turn and has stacked up against all comers without any thought of picking his spots.

As a matter of fact, he has faced some of the toughest clubs in the league as they are rated by pitchers. Four of his wins were from Chicago, probably the strongest hitting club in the league. Detroit contributed two, while the other wins are scattered among the Athletics, Browns and Washington. Detroit beat him on July 14 after he had won ten straight, and it took them twelve innings to accomplish his downfall.

Had it not been for his injury on July 15, which kept him out of the game until August 6, Cullop might have added some more to his string, as the Yankees met Chicago and Detroit during that time, two of his best victims.

Coming with a reputation to make instead of one to sustain probably has had something to do with his success. He has gone on from day to day without any strain attaching to his efforts, and the reputation has just grown on him.

WORCESTER BATTED HARD

Fell on Lowell Pitchers for 20
Hits That Netted 12 Runs—
Locals Count Four Times

Worcester players fattened their batting averages at a tremendous clip at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon, falling upon the Lowell pitchers for 20 hits in the biggest batting carnival seen here this season. A few of the locals also slugged the ball a little as Pitcher McGinley was touched up for 12 hits, but many of these failed to figure in the run-scoring. The score at the end of the matinee was 12 to 4 with Lowell, as usual, on the short end.

"Lefty" Smith, recently of the Worcester camp, was the chief factor in the afternoon session. After pitching shut out ball for four innings Smith was hit at will by the Hamiltons who scored eight runs off him in the fifth and sixth. Then Clarence Parker was shifted from right field to the pitcher's box and he did all right until the ninth when a base on balls, three singles and a double gave the visitors three more runs.

Jesse Burkett entered the game in the seventh when all hope was lost. Jesse drove in a run on an infield out and later scratched a hit down Gardella's way.

For four innings it looked like a real ball game with both Smith and McGinley pitching in rare form, backed by good fielding. Then came the bombardment. With one down, singles by McGinley, Maloney, Strands, Conney and Gardella, and a double by Pottelger counted five runs. Lowell failed to do anything in her half and again in the sixth Strands, Pottelger, Conney, Gardella and Tyler swung their clubs against the ball for clean hits and three more runs were added to the score. Smith had nothing but a good motion.

Lowell scored a run in the sixth on singles by Stimpson and Parker and Helrich's grounder to Fawcett and added another in the seventh when Maloney allowed Torphy's drive to get by him. Torphy taking second and counting a moment later on a single by Dee.

A run was added by the visitors in the eighth when Pottelger cracked out his third hit of the game and scored on Conney's third safe drive. Lowell threatened a great rally in the eighth, but the side was retired with three men on bases and two runs in Stimpson, Parker and Helrich singled in succession. Then Gilmore, a rookie who was given a chance by McGinley, struck out. Torphy slammed a single to left and Stimmy and Parker crossed the plate. Greenhalga foul-tied to Gardella. Old Jesse then surprised Gardella by hunting along the third base line while the latter was playing deep, but Dee ended the stanza with an easy fly to Conney.

Parker's delivery failed him in the ninth. Werre's double, a base on balls to Fawcett, and singles by Tyler, Maloney and Strands scored the last three runs of the day.

Fawcett was the only Worcester player who did not get into the hit column. Tyler led with four bingles and was robbed of a perfect average by a nice catch by Parker. Conney's work at shortstop was brilliant.

Torphy and Stimpson batted well for the fallen Lowellites while Stimpson's base running and fielding was also of high order.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

New pitchers are badly needed.

No more home games until Labor Day.

Gilmore, the youngster tried out at short, hit from Roxbury. He appeared nervous both in the field and at the bat.

Stimpson made a nice throw in the seventh when after catching a fly he doubled Tyler up at the initial sack. Stimpson also continued his good batting with three hits which gives him a total of 104 to date.

In the eighth Conney stole second before the ball was delivered. Parker threw to Helrich who was slow in fielding the ball and Conney was safe.

Catcher Tyler, a brother of Lefty George, has just returned to the game after being laid up for several weeks. He certainly hit the ball on the nose, securing four hits in five times at bat.

Pottelger, the former Lowell player, got in wrong with the crowd by kicking over a decision and he was given a great roasting later when he tried to steal third with the bases full.

Torphy's batting shows a welcome improvement. He has secured seven hits in the three games played here since the team returned from the trip.

Jimmy Conney's work at shortstop was without fault. He accepted nine chances, many of them difficult ones, with great ease. Besides he drove out three hits and stole a couple of bases.

When Smith was taken out, Bensack and Zieser were the only pitchers on the Lowell bench. Bensack had worked the day before and Burkett wanted to save Zieser for one of today's games. Hence Parker was brought in from right field.

Prior to yesterday, Pat Maloney, the Worcester slugger, left fielder, had secured but one hit in 13 trips to the plate. He made three out of six yesterday.

Pitcher Hearne of New London won his third game yesterday with a single in the eleventh. It was one of three extra inning games in the league.

Joe Burns, the Portland centre fielder, will be out of the game for about 10 days with a sore right shoulder. Tamm, who has made a great utility man for Portland, is playing centre.

The Lawrence Tribune, says an exchange, picks Zeke Lohman for a second Eastern league team. The selection of Lohman by the team, as Martin and Durning of Portland, Turo of Lynn, Hearne of New London and Pennington of Lawrence, Lohman, with a tall end team, has a better record than two of the Lawrence paper's selections.

Gaston and Beatty of Portland have been recalled by the Providence and Rochester clubs, respectively, in the International league.

As soon as Connie Mack walked into the grounds yesterday he spotted Dick Durning who was in street clothes and looking after the gate. He walked over, extending his right hand, and said: "Well, Dick, how is everything? I am keeping tabs on you and I notice that you are pitching great ball." Durning was with Mack at the time Mack picked him off the lot—Lawrence Tribune.

could do to stave off a more decisive defeat.

While there was little doubt at any stage of the game as to who the winner was going to be, the contest was far from being one-sided, for Delmont rallied shortly after he appeared to be giving in, and even in the 11th and 12th rounds got the crowd cheering at the manner in which he forced the milling and swung cutting punches.

THE SHORT SHIP

James W. Goes Mile in 2:12 1-2 and 2:13 at Fair Grounds

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 26.—The third and last day of the Marshfield Agricultural and Horticultural society fair brought out a record attendance, and at the afternoon Bay State Short Ship races the grand stand and edge of the track were crowded.

Among the visitors were Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, democratic candidate for nomination for governor, Mrs. Mansfield and Mayor and Mrs. Curley of Boston. The mayor and Mr. Mansfield spoke from the judges' stand.

The feature race of the afternoon was the special free-for-all trot, in which the track record for trotting, 2:14, was lowered by James W., driven by D. Warman, who went the mile in 2:12 1/2 and 2:13.

The races started with the Mayflower 2:18 class, with six starters. In the second heat Jack Kingsley, driving Leo Perrin, and Fred Bellows, driving his fast pacer, were in collision. Kingsley was thrown and dragged some distance along the track, when his horse bolted. He clung to the reins and escaped serious injury. This race went five heats, in which all finishes were very close.

In the Tom Alden purse, 2:30 class, Little Nancy, driven by Frank Burke, and Direct Audubon, driven by M. McDermott, had exciting brushes in each heat. As Mr. McDermott came to the wire to mount, dressed in a green driving suit and cap, the band played the "Wearing of the Green," and the starter introduced him to the people as the veteran driver of the circuit, he being 82 years old. He was given an ovation. The summary:

CUTSHAW HOLDING DOWN SECOND BASE FOR BROOKLYN IN MASTERLY STYLE

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26.—A star at second base means a winning team, so say most of the experts, and the history of baseball seems to prove it. That being the case, then the Brooklyn Dodgers should be winners, for if there is a more capable second baseman in the National league or any other league than the gangling guardian of Brooklyn's keystone corner the dope is wrong. Cutshaw may not be a handsome figure on the diamond, his style of play may not have the grace of Eddie Collins or the fire and snap of Johnny Evers, but he delivers the goods and in large packages. He is an expansive ground coverer, a dangerous hitter and a brainy disciple of Chadwick. He learned the rudiments of baseball at Notre Dame university, a school that has turned out many a good one. Before his college days were over he played ball with Bloomington in the "Three I" league under the name of Stevens to preserve his amateur standing. His advancement was rapid. He went in 1909 to the Coast league from Bloomington, and after three years' service there advanced to Brooklyn, where he has since been a fixture, each season seeing him become more valuable to his team, until today, it is repeated, there is not a better second baseman in the game, and doubters have but to watch his work each day to have their minds convinced.

SANK THE LUSTANIA

CAPTAIN VALENTINER, WHO COMMANDED SUBMARINE, HAS BEEN DECORATED

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Stiff-Tender of Ribe, Denmark, is quoted in a Reuter despatch from Copenhagen to the effect that the commander of the submarine which sank the Lusitania was Captain Max Valentiner, son of the dean of the Sondersborg cathedral. Captain Valentiner, this newspaper says, has been decorated with a number of orders since the sinking of the liner, including the iron cross of the first class and the Hohenzollern house order with swords, a special distinction which is the personal gift of the German emperor.

WHY CONDITIONS ARE OUT OF JOINT

Prosperity Has Produced Enormous Wastefulness in Our Standards of Living — Business Education the Magic Wand Whose Touch Will Bring Security

By Jacques H. DeLamere,

Copyright 1916—All Rights Reserved

That conditions are "out of joint" may well be the opinion of every one who provides for the home. It is easy to say "Something out to be done about it"—but what? Meanwhile the clamor of voices continues, and the market basket is soaring higher than ever, day by day.

"The prosperity of this country has produced a wastefulness that has extended to the laboring multitude," writes William E. Channing, the eminent student of domestic science. "A man here turns with scorn from fare that in many countries would be termed luxurious. It is indeed important that the standard of living in all classes should be high; that is, it should include the comforts of life, the means of neatness and order in our dwellings, and such supplies of our wants as are fitted to secure vigorous health."

"But how many waste their earnings on indulgences which may be spared, and have no resources for a dark day, and are always trembling on the brink of pauperism! Needless expenses keep too many poor for self-improvement. And here let me say, that expensive habits among the more prosperous laborers often interfere with the mental culture of themselves and their families. How many sacrifice improvement to appetite! How many of them sacrifice it to love of show; to desire of outstripping others, and to habits of expense which grow out of this insatiable passion!"

Our Standards of Living

A striking division of classes according to their thrift tendencies is made by Col. D. M. Pond, of Cleveland, Ohio. He says: "The normal family during normal conditions, unconsciously establishes a standard of living with its income as a basis for fixing the standard. If the members are frugal, they will save a little each payday for the unexpected. This is one of the best types to deal with when the time comes that makes borrowing a necessity. Another standard is that of the family that lives just within its income, and if any surplus remains after the current bills are paid, usually spends it."

"Another is that whose expenses are always just a little more than its income, and which is always in debt. Another, the family which has assumed obligations it cannot fulfill; the family which has purchased a home and has agreed to make payments larger than its income justifies, is an example."

"It is my belief," recently remarked Mr. E. R. Kimball, principal of the Lowell Commercial College, to the writer, "that the institution of business principles—such as those now in vogue in the leading business colleges throughout the United States—in the minds of the great and growing army of young men and young women, will, in time, materially mitigate if not eradicate this wastefulness which is everywhere now apparent."

"There is a steadily increasing demand upon the part of the large manufacturers and captains of industry, for employees who have taken a post-graduate course in business technique. These employees, all entering as they do, into the offices and service of industrial and mercantile plants, receive an added business education which in turn serves to enlighten them in a manner which is best calculated to bring to the surface all of their intellectual talents—and these ideas will later be given full reign in conducting their homes."

Bread and Meat Education

"I remember," continued Mr. Kimball, "of reading an expression by the president of one of the great educational institutions, in which he said: 'An education that does not connect somewhere with the bread and meat question is a poor excuse for an education.'"

"Education for education's sake is a good thing, but an education that can be put to a practical use—one that has a dollar and cents value—one that can be used immediately and continuously as a money earning asset—one that lifts you from the ranks of the poorly paid and overworked masses, and puts you in the well-paid class, is an education worth the while."

"More education is of little value as a money earning asset unless you have associated with it skill acquired through practical training. It is the duty of every parent to see to it that their children are educated. If the student and the parent are wise, both will recognize the value of a school where practical training and education both go hand in hand, can be put into actual use and that in reality connects with the daily bread and meat question throughout life. It is the student of this type who will soonest solve the proper standard of living problem, for through such training will true economy and thrift be better recognized and understood."

The Purpose of Thrift

In the everyday spending of everyday people, is an enormous purchasing power. What is needed is the application of this power, and the application of more intelligence in buying; to know the money value of a dollar and what it will buy; if judiciously expended; to buy only what is needed, regardless of the tempting cry of the "bargain" vendor; to buy of reliable merchants in one's own town—and practice common sense in the management of the household."

Not only can everybody exercise thrift, but it can be exercised all the time. The workman can put his tools in place when he is done with them and so save time hunting them up again when he needs them. The farmer can house his implements in winter instead of leaving them exposed to the weather, because this will mean a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent in his implement bills. And so with everything thrift is the working of an orderly mind that seeks for the best results of every act.

Our present wants seem big to us, but we know by experience that others will arise by and bye that will be far bigger—so big that they cannot be covered unless we have some of our present money to help out the earnings of that future time. In this real sense, thrift goes with every cent, and there is nobody who has money to spend but is called upon to be thrifty in the spending of it. To teach us the relative importance of the wants of today and the wants of tomorrow, is the true purpose of thrift.

Thrift is shown in its clearest form by Thoreau, when he quotes an ancient philosopher as declaring that "A man is rich in proportion to the number of things he can do without."

"This has a forbidding sound, and yet it really is the word of liberty and happiness. Self-indulgence is a hard task-master; his demands are never satisfied. But when one determines to limit his wants, he gains a mastery of himself and of his circumstances. This after all is what economy is for. This self-mastery which limits wants within the means that exist for supplying those wants, is what we call thrift, and this is a lesson that the world is learning in the hard school of present experience."

Labor Should Be Compensated

In a report to the chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations, the body which brought the sensational evidence on the part of some of the greatest capitalists of industry in this country, and which report is concurred in by three other commissioners. It is clearly set forth that saving as a provision for the future is just as important as is the expenditure to meet daily needs. The report says:

"The welfare of the state demands that the useful labor of every able-bodied workman should, as a minimum, be compensated by sufficient income to support in comfort himself, his wife and at least three minor children, and, in addition, provide for sickness, old age and disability. Under no other conditions can a strong, contented, efficient citizenship be developed."

It might be added that it would be no more fair or reasonable for a workman so compensated to waste that part of his income which ought to provide for the future than it would be for him to waste the money intended for food today.

To rail at the rule of money; to belittle the saving of money, is satisfactory as an expression of sentiment which everybody feels at some time or another; but when we adjust our sentiments to the realities of life, we feel that the man who has saved money when he could be most likely to spend it wisely when he must; and, having money, and spending it wisely, is the wand whose magic touch brings forth almost everything we need.

WILL ADJOURN THURSDAY

Democratic and Republican Leaders in Get-Together Movement for Adjournment of Congress

Special to The Sun
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26.—There is a get-together movement on foot between democratic and republican leaders that points to an adjournment on Thursday, August 31st. The revenue bill will be out of the way and all conference measures agreed to, a quorum can be obtained if the shipping bill or any other contested measure requires a vote, and the president is anxious to adjournment shall have taken place before he leaves for Shadow-lawn on Friday to receive formal notification of his nomination the following day. To this program the republicans are said to be favorably inclined. Moreover no one wants to run the risk of having congress drawn into the threatened strike complications. The advocates of the immigration bill realize its fate would be doubtful if passed at this session, and the early rumors that the president might sign it have given place to assertions that he is certain to veto it if forced to do so. Probably no adjournment will be agreed upon until within a couple of days of actual adjournment, but August 31st is the favorite hazard at this moment, although some of the insurgent senators hope to throw in a monkeywrench that will block the plan, by getting before congress some of the matters which the caucus agreed should be carried over till December.

Little Bit Personal

With the official temperature at the weather bureau close to the 100 mark and the official records of the bureau at its down town station touching 101 in the shade the tempers of the senators showed an equal rise. The immigration and revenue bills had roused them to a high pitch; balking insurgents from caucus rule fanned themselves with big palm leaves while they "assessed back" at the regulation leaders who did not mince their words of condemnation as they tried in vain to haul them back into line. Senator Ellison Smith of South Carolina, who had been acting as convoy to the immigration bill, raised havoc with the cut and dried caucus plans by trying to force the immigration bill to a vote, and thereby displace the revenue bill. Senators Stone, Chamberlain and Kern vainly tried to hold him down, and Senator Smith poured out vials of wrath on Senator Stone's head until the bottles were empty. The republicans at first sat still and enjoyed the sport but when Senator Martine, in a high pitched voice and with threatening gestures began a diatribe against the senators, the republicans took a hand in the argument. Martine wanted the literacy clause struck out. But the "literate" clause was the grand feature of many of us could not have entered this country," and he pointed squarely at Senators O'Gorman, Gallinger, Nelson and others of foreign parentage. Senator Ballinger waved a big fan and protested that his grandfather did not come under that class; then Senator Penrose made invitations to the senators on the democratic wrangle, at which Senator Stone caustically remarked, "It's our quarrel, and you republicans have no right to butt in." Somehow civil service got mixed up in it whereupon Senator Thomas and Senator Hardwick had a lively tilt as to who was the most likely to get to heaven. In the midst of a battle of words, Mr. Hardwick said, "I don't agree with you but perhaps I will when we meet in heaven." "I'm afraid I will never get there," said Thomas. "I've as good a chance as you have," retorted Hardwick. A thunder shower just then dropped the mercury a dozen degrees—and peace was restored.

The National Guard

Out at Fort Myer the National Guard is still in camp waiting orders to go to the border. A night or two ago, the guard on duty saw a big black object slip out of the cook's tent. "Halt, Halt, who goes there?" he called. No reply came. His challenge roused the other watch and in a minute the black object came near. It wagged its tail and in its mouth was a big slab of bacon—it was the company's mascot raiding the cook's tent where he had feasted on steak. The soldier of the guard caught the dog, and in the morning took him before the commanding officer for sentence. The dog was banished from camp, but the young sentry who cried "Halt, who goes there?" to him, will be old and grey before the boys get through joking him about it.

Why Not Can 'Em?

With the high cost of print paper, the "leave to speak," or extend remarks in the Congressional Record means much money to be paid out by the government. It is estimated that on one afternoon this week so many such requests from members of the house were granted that not less than a billion words will result. All this matter is sent out in the form of speeches in the Congressional Record and if of a political nature, as most of it is, it will also be printed in special form and sent out by the congressmen to their constituents under the congressional rank. The topics ranged from the need of a new postoffice building in a small western town to "The industrial relations of this government with other governments from the time of the foundation of this government to the present time." That last is by Cullup of Indiana, and if he don't leave out anything is likely to take some miles of paper to print it.

Old Wills Restored

The wills of George and Martha Washington have just been restored by an expert and are now safely lodged once more in the vaults of the Fairfax county court house over in Virginia. The wills had suffered from old age and much handling until they were in danger of being utterly destroyed. The restoration has been so well done that the wills now look as if just written.

All's Well That Ends Well

The recent marriage of State Senator Robert M. Washburn of Worcester and Miss Martha R. Clark of Baltimore is said to be the outcome of an interrupted romance of twenty years ago. As the story is told in Washington, where Mr. Washburn is a frequent visitor, he and Miss Clark were sweethearts in their youth, but the course of true love followed out the old adage and failed to run smooth; they drifted apart and not until this year did they again meet. But little Ben Cupid had not forgotten the early courtship, and a wedding quickly followed.

Must Be Some Chapeau

Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, democrat, big of voice, big of body and of heroic size, is credited with wearing a huge $150 Panama hat. But the senator says the new lid was a gift, and that he is not buying $150 hats, even at bargain counters.

TROLLEY STRIKE

The Bangor Carmen Demand Recognition of Union

BANGOR, Maine, Aug. 26.—The employees of the Bangor Railway and Electric company today inaugurated their strike for recognition of their union. In accordance with the strike vote taken last night, the cars began to go to the barns soon after 9 o'clock.

At ten o'clock practically the entire system was tied up, with only two or three cars running. The union men claim that 25 per cent. of their number, of which there are 102, had refused to work after 9 o'clock. President E. C. Ryder of the company, issued a statement that because of the company having kept faith with its men not to hire strikebreakers while negotiations were on, the company will not be able to operate cars on all lines until Monday morning, after which it expects to resume schedule service. He stated further that the men reported by Organizer Shine have not modified their original demands which meant that the operating schedules and control and management of the men will be turned over to the employees. To this the company will never consent, he said. "The position of the company, as stated in the previous letters of the company, fully stated its position and there will be no modification of it."

Organizer Thomas F. Shine stated that the demands of the men were for recognition of the union and that they do not want to share the control of the company with the officials; that the demands for submission of disagreements between the men and company to a joint arbitration board are confined to cases of unjust discipline of employees. He added that the strikers will be counselled not to use violence.

MARRIES CHAUFFEUR

MRS. MAUD B. TWOMBLEY, RICH WIDOW OF HAVERHILL, WEDDED AT PORTLAND

HAVERHILL, Aug. 25.—Word was received here yesterday that Mrs. Maud B. Twombley, widow of Charles A. Twombley, who died three years ago, and well known in society circles, was married last Monday to Harold F. Tebbets of 93 Fountain street, employed as a chauffeur by her.

Mr. Twombley was engaged in the undertaking business here, owning a large establishment. He bequeathed his estate, which was considered a large one, to his wife. Mr. Twombley, who had been married twice, was survived by two sons by his first wife. They contested the will, securing $500 each.

The bulk of the estate reverted to Mrs. Twombley. Tebbets, who is 32 years old, has been in the employ of Mrs. Twombley about a year. A week ago last Wednesday, the couple left for Portland, Me., and filed their marriage intentions at the city hall. They returned to Portland Monday, received their marriage license, and were married at the residence of Rev. C. A. Davis, 100 Spruce street, etc., which is a place with many children. When such a case will be reported at the station Officer Grady will be detailed to investigate.

High School Plans

The plans for the proposed new high school are about completed and the specifications are under way. The mayor received a letter to that effect today from Architect Henry L. Rourke, who is in charge of the plans, and he will call a meeting of the school and advisory boards after Labor day.

A copy of the letter received by His Honor is as follows:

August 26, 1916.
Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: With reference to the plans for the Lowell high school, I wish to inform you that the plans are about completed, and the specifications are now under way. If you think it advisable to have a conference with the school committee and the advisory board before the specifications are completed and put into the market for bids, will you please call a meeting for whatever time you may think best. Sincerely yours,
Henry L. Rourke.

Opening of Schools

Supt. Mooley of the school department announced this morning that the public schools of Lowell will open on Monday, Sept. 11.

Given Other Duties

Patrolman William Grady, who was yesterday assigned to special work in connection with the cleaning campaign organized by the board of health, started on his new duties this morning. In addition to helping clean the city, Officer Grady will also look after minor cases brought to the attention of the police, such as defacing buildings, breaking panes of glass, etc., which is a job with many children. When such a case will be reported at the station Officer Grady will be detailed to investigate.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

WHY NOT ANNEXATION?

The tax rate of Dracont is announced as $23.00 or $3.40 higher than that of last year or $2.70 higher than the tax rate in Lowell. It is really surprising to find the patience with which the people of some towns, such as Dracont, continue to tolerate adverse conditions from which they might easily free themselves.

The Sun talked annexation to the people of Dracont until there could be no valid argument against it; but the people who believed in it refused to move in the matter while a few politicians got together to oppose any movement in that direction.

The city of Lowell does not want the town; but if any number of Dracont residents want to get about five times as much for their taxes as they get at present, they should start a movement for annexation of the entire town. How will they go about it? That seems to be the chief difficulty to be overcome. They have simply to get a lawyer to draw up a bill to be submitted to the legislature providing for the annexation of the entire town. If they want only a part of the town annexed, then they would have to get a surveyor or an engineer to give such a description of the area to be annexed as is given in a deed at the sale of any tract of land.

That would not be very expensive; but such a document is all that is needed to bring the question before the legislature. Any of the representatives would introduce the bill. Then the hearings would give those interested an opportunity to express their views in regard to the whole question. The measure would have to provide for a referendum to the voters of Lowell as the municipal council would scarcely feel warranted in favoring such a radical step unless authorized by a direct vote of the people.

A large proportion of the people of North Chelmsford are in favor of annexation as they want to enjoy the advantages of city government, such as fire and police protection, water service, free use of our public schools, better streets, and after a time better sewers also. The method of bringing up the matter is the same for North Chelmsford as for Dracont, and if a few of the residents get together to secure an engineer to give an accurate description of the part of the town to be annexed the rest would be easy.

Many North Chelmsford people have expressed a wish that the village were annexed; but as they did not care to go any farther nothing has been done in the matter. The Sun found enough of the people in favor but nobody ready to take the initiative. Thus the village of North Chelmsford will remain as it is and so will Dracont until the people who are bearing the burdens of town government decide to seek a change which will give them more for the money they pay out in taxes and in a short time double their population and treble the value of their land, a large proportion of which is waste and will remain so until the towns become part and parcel of Lowell. The growth of our city is being diverted, where it would never go if Dracont and North Chelmsford were annexed. The immediate benefits to be derived from annexation would accrue to the territory annexed; but ultimately the city would be amply repaid by the rapid increase of population and through the advance in the value of taxable property due to building progress in the annexed district. All this would help to make Lowell a greater city, an end which we are all desirous to promote; but no such improvements can be brought about so long as the people of Dracont, of North Chelmsford and Haverhill continue to be satisfied with paying high taxes while getting little in return for their money. The time is not far distant when Lowell will take in all of the adjoining towns. The one that comes over first will get the best treatment, not from preference but because of helping our city to provide the territory so very necessary for our future growth.

CHILDREN ON THE STREETS

In spite of all the accidents which recently occurred to children in this city, it would seem that parents are still negligent in allowing them to play on dangerous streets. There have been several fatal accidents on East Merrimack street and still children of tender age can be seen there on the sidewalks and occasionally on the street, wholly unguarded by anybody old enough to realize the danger. The only way in which the parents of such little ones can be forced to take care of their children is to take the children from the streets to the police station and keep them there until the parents call for them. Then have the latter arraigned in court and fined for allowing the children to incur the danger of being killed. There is no law at the present time under which this can be done; but there should be such a law. It is greatly needed in Lowell to compel parents or guardians of small children to take proper care of them.

VERMONT'S EXAMPLE

The state of Vermont has been one of the first to make due allowance for the families of dependent soldiers on duty in the nation's service. A special session of the legislature has just dealt with the subject in what seems to be a very satisfactory manner. Each family may receive $35 monthly according to the number; where a wife only is in need she will receive $20 per month. Another measure provides that the state shall pay $10 a month in addition to the federal allowance of $15 to enlisted men. Vermont has thus set an example which other states will doubtless follow. The soldier should be paid enough to support his family or else the government that demands his service should see that the family is supported without being subjected to the stigma of pauperism.

THE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

The clean-up campaign is on; and let it be kept up indefinitely. Mayor O'Donnell's action in appointing a special officer to look after this matter alone may have a good effect, provided the co-operation of the entire force be not thus diminished or lost. The supervising work of the superintendent will of course be necessary in order to prevent lack of attention at any point, in any district or on any beat.

While nobody knows the origin of infantile paralysis, if cleanliness does not prevent the spread of that disease, it will certainly prevent some others almost as bad.

BEARDS ARE BARRED

The soldiers of France are no longer to be allowed the luxury of a full beard. The order presumes of course that whether in the trenches or out, the soldiers will have the opportunities and the facilities for shaving. This is doubtless a move to make the French more easily distinguishable from the enemy and from some of the other nationalities who join them in battle. It may also be somewhat of a protection against injury from the volumes of liquid fire thrown by the Germans. There is no ban on the luxuriant moustache always so popular with the French.

ENTERING THE WAR

It now looks as if not only Roumania but Greece also would join the allies. Roumania expressed the willingness to enter the war with the entente allies, just as soon as they showed convincing proofs of their ability to win the war against the central powers. It would seem that Roumania is convinced, the rapid Russian drives having impressed her deeply.

The railroad heads ask President Wilson where they will get the money to pay the increase to the brotherhoods. That is easy. Charge it up to the public with 50 per cent. added. That will square things for the roads and queer things for the people in the usual way.

President Wilson has appointed a republican judge, Charles M. Hough of New York, to the United States circuit court. His appointment makes the court of the circuit in which he is to serve, three to one republican. Yet Mr. Hughes finds Wilson's appointments extremely partisan.

It would appear that the European war or some other cause has disturbed the monsters of the deep, judging from the number of sharks that seek human fodder and the number of swordfish that have been ramming small boats.

While the epidemic of infantile paralysis is abroad, it is well for all parents to keep their children out of public places wherever possible and to call a doctor promptly when any symptoms of illness appear.

The tariff on dyes is imposed to protect an infant industry. But when the infant reaches adult age it should be left to shift for itself. Yet the republican policy would never remove a tariff once imposed.

Cambridge school officials think it is wise to put off the opening of the schools until cooler weather. There is no need of such a precaution against infantile paralysis in this city.

It is alleged that the capture of the town of Mush in Armenia by the Russians does not mean that there will be any change in the diet of the natives.

The proposition in the U. S. senate to tax the profits of certain commodities may be the only method by which some combines may be restrained from plundering the public.

The tax rate of the city of Lawrence remains at $18.50, same as last year. Lawrence has not so many lions in the fire as we have.

Then Mamma Blushed

May was enjoying her first experience of a wedding, and, as she was only six, she found much to interest her.

The bridal couple had just departed in a shower of rice, confetti and old slippers, when May asked:

"Why did they all throw things at that pretty lady in the carriage?"

"For luck," my child, said a bridesmaid who stood near.

"And why," asked the child again, "doesn't the lady throw them back?"

"Oh, was she shocked," answered, "that would be rude."

"Oh, no, it wouldn't," persisted May calmly, "mamma always does."

Pattern Preferred

Stella called on her newly married friend, Bella, and found her attired in a business-like overall, while her arms were full of fashion papers and cookery books.

"Hallo!" she exclaimed. "What are you going to make?"

"Some cakes," replied the young wife proudly.

"But why have you got out those fashion papers, as well as the cookery books?" confessed Bella, rather shyly.

"I've seen a bit of a novel shamlessly. Tell me, do you make cakes from a recipe or a pattern?"

Absent-Minded Danger

"It is a serious drawback to success to be absent-minded," remarked Senator La Follette. "I recently heard of a very absent-minded lawyer who engaged a taxicab while he journeyed to court in a heavy wind and rain storm. On the way he overtook the judge, plodding along through the mud, and he halted the conveyance and invited the judge to ride with him."

"But when the court opened the judge, repulsed the attorney coldly, and told him to get out of his taxicab, ran in and left his Honor to pay for the taxicab."

Clock Made of Straw

A clock made of straw is constructed at Mohlen, Germany. Not even a piece of stiffening cardboard or a drop of glue has been used. It is six feet high and is two feet square.

There are eight pendulums which allow speed regulation. By pressing a button which comes out automatically on one side, the clockwork is wound up and runs for five hours. By pushing another button the hands can be set.

The dial figures, pendulum, hands, even the chain, weight gears, and the skeleton are of straw. The chain is 14 inches long and ends in a ring.

The construction of the clock, thousands of stalks of straw have been used, mostly three and fourfold, to give them strength. Popular Science Monthly.

The 1890 Thanksgiving day football game between Yale and Princeton took place at Eastern park, Brooklyn, and young Davis was assigned to cover it with a ticket entitling him to a place on the side lines.

Mr. Brisbane came to the game and took a friend. The editor had a side-line ticket for himself, but none for his guest, so he sought to requisition the ticket of the young reporter. The latter's refusal was couched in the language neither gentle nor diplomatic. "That night Mr. Brisbane went to the office and wrathfully related the incident. 'What shall we do?' was asked. 'Do,' retorted Mr. Brisbane. 'Why, raise his salary!'

His Middle Name

"For goodness' sake, get those kids to bed," grumbled Jenkins, who had vainly tried to settle down for a quiet five minutes.

The young business went aloft, and there seemed some prospect of peace until Harold, the eldest, who had been allowed half an hour's grace, began butting in with his childish queries. "What on earth do you want now?" demanded the harassed parent, as he desperately flung down the paper.

"What dad, did Adam only have one name?"

"Of course he did. Now, look here, any more silly questions and you go to bed, too, my son."

"Yes, pa, but didn't I talk a little bit more about that question?"

"Go on with it," said the patient parent. "And, mind, this is the very last."

"Well, was Adam his first name or his last name?"

Your dog, and my dog, and all dogs are the same.

So gentle and so knowing and so fine; All ready for a journey or a gallop or a game—

And I wish I had that old dog of mine!

Your dog and my dog, and don't it echo sweet,

The music of his barking when you come; And his paw pads upon you and his gentle eyes to greet—

You bet I miss my old dog some!

Your dog and my dog, it's always just the way,

We love 'em and we get attached so tight; And then there's something happens, and your heart is never gay

With the same sweet light!

Your dog, and my dog, and all dogs everywhere,

So faithful and so noble and so dear; And you love them, and you trust them, and you give them every care—

And I wish I had my old dog here!

DANIELS REPLIES

Secretary of Navy Answers Cong. Gardner in Maine Speech

MACHIAS, Me., Aug. 26.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels delivered here last night the first of a series of speeches he will make in this state during the next few days which mark his entry into the campaign for the reelection of President Wilson.

While he touched on other topics to some extent, Mr. Daniels devoted himself particularly to answering charges made by Representative A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts, who has been the secretary's chief critic in congress.

Mr. Daniels referred to a series of thirteen questions regarding the administration of the navy which Mr. Gardner propounded to the secretary in a letter, saying that all of them had been asked by Mr. Gardner and answered satisfactorily by the navy department many times.

"There are doubtless people who are able to ask more questions than Mr. Gardner," the secretary said, "but I doubt if any one has ever asked the same questions so many times without paying the slightest attention to the answers I have done everything but sing them to him and while goodness knows I am no singer, if I thought that by so doing I could get him to stop asking questions long enough to listen to the answers, I would gladly set them to music."

Answering one of Mr. Gardner's questions which alleged that 10 of the 21 battleships in the fleet were in unsatisfactory shape in the 1914 battle practice, the secretary produced a letter from Captain C. P. Plunkett, director of gunnery exercises, who said of his twenty years' experience in the navy:

"I know of no time during that period when the mechanics of our country had more to fear from the batteries of our fleet than they have today."

Captain Plunkett added that by direction of the secretary, the widest possible publicity would be given to the battle practice results next month.

"I do not sympathize with this form of criticism," the gunnery director went on, referring to Mr. Gardner's question, "and believe that it will undermine the confidence of the people in the fleet and the confidence of the fleet people in their ships and in the officers who are charged with the responsibility of the preparation of the fleet for war."

"I consider such criticisms and attacks on our target practice and the publication of the facts in connection therewith have been of the greatest use to every enemy of the government, both in our own country and abroad."

"On the floor of congress," Mr. Daniels continued, "Mr. Gardner said he wished he could have the opinion of the official observer on our battleships as to their target practice."

I read his opinion. These are not words, nor those of any politician, nor any civil appointee of a political party. They are uttered with full knowledge of his responsibility by one of the foremost officers of the United States navy and an expert on these subjects."

Another question dealt with the type of vessels with which battleships were equipped. Mr. Gardner asserting that those in use in 1914 had been declared obsolete by navy ordinance officials. He asked if the secretary knew this when he issued his 1914 report.

"We not only knew it but were already manufacturing long range torpedoes to take their place," Mr. Daniels said, adding that these facts also had been contained in his own report and that of the chief of ordinance to which Mr. Gardner referred.

"I am also glad to inform him," he continued, "that since then all the dreadnoughts in commission have been equipped with these new torpedoes."

The secretary refuted Mr. Gardner's assertions that there had been undue delay in the completion of navy ships of various types now under construction. Labor conditions made it difficult to hasten this work, he said, but the department was doing all in its power in this regard and had plans for the 1917 ships ready before congress had passed the appropriation bill authorizing their construction.

TOO MUCH CONFIDENCE

PHLEDES NATHEN'S CONFIDENCE IN HUMAN NATURE

COST HIM JUST $147

Phledes Nathen, who is employed in one of the local mills, was flummoxed out of $147 yesterday afternoon. The old game of place trust in a perfect stranger was the cause of Nathen's loss and although the matter was reported to the police, it is doubtful if the money will ever be recovered.

Nathen, who is an industrious person, had saved $147 from his wages and was going to send it to relatives in Greece. He went to the postoffice to learn how he could send the money and while passing through the corridor of the federal building he got into conversation with a stranger and the pair started for the Greek colony.

When near the corner of Dutton and Market streets, they were accosted by another man who inquired the way to the depot. Nathen's friend suggested that they walk in the direction of the depot with the man, inasmuch as the latter could not seem to understand the verbal directions given him.

Upon arriving at the station, the man explained that he was going to Spain and had considerable money to exchange. He did not wish to carry it on his person while purchasing a ticket and suggested that Nathen hold it for him. The man then gave Nathen a bundle of paper which was supposed to contain $240 in money.

Upon the man's return the money was given back to him. Nathen thought that he had forgotten something in a store nearby and at the suggestion of the man who Nathen met in the postoffice, Nathen agreed to secure the article, while the other two waited. He was suggested to Nathen that he should show confidence in the man by leaving his money with him until returning with the article.

Nathen rushed up the stairs leading from the station to Chelmsford street, and was back in a few minutes, but upon returning found that his two friends were missing. After waiting for a short time he began to doubt whether the man had been flummoxed and he went to the police station where he reported his loss.

TEWKSBURY SCHOOLS

The public schools of Tewksbury will open Sept. 5 after the summer vacation, and the following appointments on the teaching staff have been announced by Superintendent James E. Miss Anna Churchill of Southborough, is to teach grades three or four.

Miss Estelle Horton of Wakefield is to assist Miss Ella E. Fleming in grades seven and eight. Miss Gladys Arnold is to teach in the Library school, Miss Miriam Wiggin to be transferred as teacher of the grammar grade, Shaw-shusetts school. The principal of that school has not as yet been appointed. Miss Hopkins is to be the principal at the South Training school.

HORSE KICK FATAL

Rupert E. Crockett, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Crockett of Wakefield, whose funeral took place this afternoon in the Lowell cemetery, died as a result of being kicked in the face by a horse at Wakefield. Lockjaw was the cause of death. After the accident the boy informed his father that some of his companions had suggested biting the horse's heels with a stick to make it start, and the little fellow got in near, receiving a blow in the forehead the animal kicked up its heels. Death occurred Thursday at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, where the boy had been removed for treatment.

THE WIRELESS MEN

ARE MODEST HEROES—WAR GIVES NEW TRADITIONS OF PLUCK AND STAINCHNESS

The pluck and staunchness of the wireless operators has made a new tradition of the sea since the European war began. This wireless-room tradition is a living thing, and with every fresh disaster the youth with the receiver over his ears, who goes on quietly pressing his levers and sending out the call knows that he must live up to it.

A proper recognition of the value of the operators was made at a dinner at the Trocadero, when about a score of Marconi men were assembled to receive the thanks of the Marconi company.

Mr. Godfrey Isaacs, the chairman, spoke in high appreciation of the countless brave deeds that have been performed, without the stimulus of anything spectacular throughout the long series of U-boat outrages on merchant vessels. The operators present were just the few who happened to be in London; the men who have been shipwrecked in the pursuit of their duty ran into scores. A good number who have been maimed for life by shells from submarines and in other ways are now employed at Marconi house in training operators. Places have been found for others at the great wireless stations in this country.

At the dinner a modest and touching speech was made by Operator Jones, of the Appam in proposing "Our brothers on the sea." The young men—most operators on ships are in the twenties—round the tables all had the stories to tell if they wished, but operators are not usually fond of talking heroics. Among them were McCormick and Leith, of the Lusitania, who went on sending out the S.O.S. (a purely conventional code, by the way. The idea that it means "Save our souls or something like that," is a joke in the service) when most people were making for the boats.

It has been quite a common experience for an operator to be shipwrecked three or four times during the war—Shampton, for instance, was wrecked the first time in 1914, and in 1914; he was on the Kiapara when she fell into the clutches of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and was wounded on the Drummer when the ship was torpedoed in May last year. J. F. Rea had a great adventure on the ever-famous Anglo-California. While the submarine was circling round the liner, raining in shot and shell, Rea was radiating out his call for help. After Captain Parslow had been killed on the bridge, and for the hours the terrible shelling lasted, he was at his post, and came with the ship safe into Queenstown. Rea has received a gold watch from the admiralty for his bravery. There are scores of stories quite as inspiring, some well known from the newspapers, others only recorded in the Marconi paper. One of the guests was Penn, of the Harnatis, torpedoed in March—Manchester, (Eng.) Guardian.

COMMUNICATION

Editor The Sun:

Dear Sir:

I have just read your editorial on what ought to be done in the soldier's family. I have often thought of the poor old soldier who suffered all the hardships of the Civil war and of the suffering of his widow and child. Many of them have to depend on a pension of $12 per month for a living while a fireman or a policeman who was killed in the service is pensioned on half pay many at an age when most laboring men are still striving hard to eke out a poor living. Many a soldier's wife has to go home to shelter them as they are compelled by law to pay a high tax on their little property to help pay a pension to the soldier's family. Some of these draw more money than the average working man gets per month. If any one can give a reason why a pension of $12 per month should be paid to the soldier's family, I would like to know it. Why should any public official suggest a pension of $12 per month for the tax payer? The law that allows the people's money to be paid as pensions to able bodied men like Ex-Supt. Moffatt suggests to be repaid at once. Laboring men, how long are we going to allow this state of affairs to exist?

Truly yours,

LABORER.

INCOME FOR THREE MONTHS ENDING JUNE 30, SHOWS INCREASE OF MORE THAN 400%

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, August 26.—Further evidence of the increasing prosperity of the Boston and Maine railroad is given in the road's quarterly report for the three months ending June 30, recently filed with the public service commission.

It shows that the aggregate revenue for those three months was $13,914,761, an increase of $1,228,412 for the corresponding period of 1915; operating expenses also increased, the figures being $9,205,046 for 1916, and $8,643,826 for 1915, but even with this increase the road showed for the quarter a net revenue after taxes had been paid, of $4,191,977 for 1916, as compared with $2,552,964 for the preceding year.

The net income, after all charges have been paid, however, is the factor which to financiers tells the real story of prosperity, and this figure, for the quarter ending June 30, was $1,749,655, an increase of more than four hundred per cent. over that for the corresponding quarter of the previous year, when it was only $410,234.

ARCHBISHOP IS DEAD

MOST REV. JOHN L. SPALDING DIED YESTERDAY—WAS HEAD OF DIOCESE OF PEORIA, ILL.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 26.—Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, who has been in failing health for the last two weeks, died here late yesterday. The end was not unexpected, and his relatives were at his bedside. He was 76 years old.

Most Rev. John Lancaster Spalding was consecrated bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peoria, Ill., May 1, 1877, and resigned because of ill-health Sept. 1, 1908. In the following year he was created titular archbishop of Scythopolis.

He was one of the most prominent prelates of the Roman Catholic church in the middle west, and received nationwide notice when President Roosevelt named him as one of the arbitrators to settle the anthracite coal strike in 1912.

MANY LOWELL OUTINGS

Telephone Employes at Canobie Lake—Republican Club at Bass Point and Nahant

Over 400 employes of the Lowell division of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. are today attending the annual outing that is being held at Canobie Lake park under the auspices of Lowell chapter.

The attendance includes the office forces, operators, linemen, etc., of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill branches.

Among the guests present are the following officers of the company: President Philip Spaulding, General Manager W. R. Driver, L. W. Whitney and others.

The Lowell chapter, of which Thomas Delaney of this city is president, has an enviable reputation for a fat men's race and a tug of war. For the girls there were a 50-yard dash, a three-legged race and a potato race. Besides the sports there were many other attractions including the water, dancing, swimming, etc.

The big feature of the day was a dinner served in the big dining room in the pavilion shortly after noon. Over 400 were present of whom 125 were from Lowell.

The guests sat around the festive board and discussed an excellent menu, and this was followed by vocal and instrumental music.

Thomas B. Delaney acted as toastmaster and in a brief address welcomed the invited guests as well as the members of the chapter and he introduced as the speaker of the afternoon President P. O. Spaulding of Boston, who spoke of mutual advantage in connection with annual outings.

Mr. Spaulding also demonstrated how such gatherings were beneficial to the public at large, the organization and the company for events of this kind bring telephone employes of several cities together and the result is closer relationship, bringing harmony and pleasure in the work at the switchboard.

Following President Spaulding's address Jackson Palmer, Esq., of this city gave several pleasing vocal selections, while the Honey Bee quartet, also of Lowell, entertained in a delightful manner.

Stated at the head table were Toastmaster Thomas B. Delaney, President P. O. Spaulding, Dr. Moses G. Parker of Lowell, a director; E. W. Longley, of Boston, general auditor; C. W. Leathers of Lowell, manager of the Lowell chapter; C. F. Grover, Lowell, district manager; B. J. Mahoney, Lowell, district plant chief; F. W. Wilson, district traffic chief and John Sibley, general supervisor of supplies.

The committee in charge consisted of the following: Thomas Delaney, president of the chapter; Benjamin J. Mahoney, district plant chief; C. F. Grover, district manager; F. A. Wilson, traffic chief; F. J. Healey, revenue accountant.

Republicans at Bass Point

The Billerica Republican club, which recently reorganized, today held its first annual outing at Bass Point and Nahant. Over 20 automobiles, secured for the occasion from republicans in this vicinity, filled with members and friends of the club lined up in front of the headquarters in Elm street, North Billerica, and led by a machine driven by Thomas T. Clark, started over the road to Bass Point. The 20 machines attracted much attention en route to the beach. A route that included a drive along the shore was taken and was a feature of the day. Upon arriving at the seashore a baseball game between the married and single men of the club and other sporting events for which suitable prizes were awarded to the winners were held.

This evening dinner will be enjoyed in the Hotel Brenton, one of the popular hostilities at Bass Point, and the return trip will be made shortly afterward. The committee in charge is as follows: Fred M. Hanson, John Brewster, Thomas T. Clark and Frederick Brown.

Outings at Revere

The employees of the Auto Tire and Vulcanizing Co., James J. Norton proprietor, had a day off today and like many other Lowell people enjoyed it at Revere beach. The Vulcanizers were conveyed from Lowell to the beach in a special car that left Merrimack square at 8.15 o'clock. Bathing was on the morning's program, with a dinner at noon and other events for the afternoon.

Spawick Hosiery

At 12.45 o'clock a crowd of merry-makers, employees of the Spawick hosiery, passed through Merrimack square bound for Revere beach. They plan to have a good time at the beach this afternoon and return at 8.30 this evening.

SHEARS, KNIVES AND BLACK-JACKS USED IN BIG RIOT

Four Men Dangerously Wounded, Women Fainted and Many Jumped From Windows When Employes of Baltimore Factory Clashed—Trouble Started When Officials Refused the Demands of 300 Employes to Discharge Four Cutters

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—Four men were dangerously wounded, women fainted and the office force of Henry Sonneborn Co., clothing manufacturers here, jumped from the windows on the first floor, when several hundred employes, armed with shears, knives and blackjacks, fought each other down the stairway from the ninth floor today.

Samuel E. Pumplan and William Blaustein, both of East Baltimore are in a critical condition at the hospital from stab wounds.

The trouble started when 300 employes affiliated with the Federation of Labor demanded that four cutters in their department, who are members of the Amalgamated Garment Workers of the World, be discharged or removed from that department. The officials of the company refused their demands.

The strike signal was given and the fight followed. Police reserves were summoned and twelve arrests were made.

WORCESTER WON FIRST GAME OF DOUBLE HEADER, 7 TO 3

Jesse Burkeft, erstwhile manager of the Worcester team, made another attempt to get revenge from Manager Billy Hamilton when the Lowell and Worcester teams met in a bargain day bill at Spaulding park this afternoon.

The first game was called at 2 o'clock with a fair sized crowd on hand.

The games today were the last that will be played here until Labor day morning when Worcester will again appear here. Lowell will leave Monday for a road trip that will include games in Portland, Worcester and Lynn.

It was Burkeft's first appearance before a large crowd in a Lowell uniform and he was given a good hand when he went to the coaching lines.

Zieser started in to pitch for Lowell but he had been on the mound but a short time when the visitors started to hammer his delivery and he was relegated to the rear and "Zeke" Lohman took his place. Van Dyke was in the box for Worcester and Tyler was out the receiving end of the battery.

Umpire Stafford called the first game at two o'clock.

First Inning

Worcester scored four runs in the first session while the home team failed to send a man across the plate. Maloney drew a free pass and scored on Strands' double to left field. Potteiger sent the sphere into right field for three bases, scoring Strands.

Cooney singled to left field and Strands made a great throw to the plate getting Potteiger. The ball was then sent to second for a double on Cooney.

Zieser then slammed Gardella and Werre and both men walked to first. Fewster singled to right and Gardella scored. Werre scored the fourth run when Tyler drove the ball to right field. At this point Zieser was taken off the firing line and Lohman took his place. Van Dyke grounded to O'Connell and was retired at first.

Four runs, five hits, no errors.

In the latter half of the inning, Kane bunted to Van Dyke and never had a look at first. Dee singled to center field. Stimpson hit a line fly to center field. Stimpson was third out on a fly to Potteiger.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score—Lowell 0, Worcester 4.

Second Inning

Maloney reached first on O'Connell's error. Strands singled to center. Potteiger advanced both runners with a sacrifice. Cooney singled, scoring Maloney and Strands. Cooney then stole second. Gardella hit to Dee and Cooney was forced at third. Gardella was thrown out while trying to purloin second.

Helrich opened the second with a single to left and never got beyond first. Torphy popped a fly to Cooney. Greenhalge flied to Potteiger in center and O'Connell hit an easy grounder to Van Dyke and was out at first.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score—Lowell 0, Worcester 6.

Third Inning

Werre flied to Kane. Fewster grounded out Helrich to Torphy. Tyler singled to right. Van Dyke popped a fly between Stimpson and O'Connell which was dropped. Maloney sent a grounder to Dee and Van Dyke was forced at second.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

Lohman grounded to Gardella. Kane flied to Cooney and Dee went out on a grounder to Cooney.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score—Lowell 0, Worcester 6.

Fourth Inning

Strands sent the ball to the left field fence for two bases. Potteiger bunted along the third base line for a safe hit. Cooney hit to Lohman who threw to Dee, getting Strands at third. Gardella sent a grounder to Helrich, who tagged Cooney on the way to second and then threw to Torphy, doubling up Gardella.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

Stimpson was out at first on a grounder to Fewster. Parker knocked the ball to right field for three bases. Helrich grounded out, Gardella to Werre, and Torphy bunted.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score—Lowell 0, Worcester 6.

Fifth Inning

Werre reached first on Torphy's fumble of his grounder. Fewster sacrificed him to second. Tyler singled to center. Kane threw to the plate to head off Fewster when Tyler started for second. He was caught on Greenhalge's throw to O'Connell. Van Dyke closed the inning with a grounder to Helrich.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score—Lowell 0, Worcester 6.

Sixth Inning

Maloney dropped a Texas leaguer in back of second base. He stole second. Strands advanced him to third with a sacrifice. Potteiger bunted to Dee and Kane scored. Potteiger going out at first. Cooney hit an easy fly to Helrich.

One run, one hit, no errors.

Kane got a life when Gardella made a wild heave of his grounder. Dee and Stimpson were both "tagged" filling the bases. Van Dyke made a wild piley and Kane scored. Parker struck out.

Dee scored on Helrich's lone fly to Strands. Torphy singled to left and Stimpson was caught at the plate on a nice throw by Maloney.

Two runs, one hit, one error.

Score—Lowell 2, Worcester 7.

Seventh Inning

Parker made a nice running catch of Gardella's fly to right. Werre singled to left garden. Fewster struck out on the third strike. Werre started for second and was thrown out by Greenhalge.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Greenhalge singled to left. O'Connell flied to Potteiger. Lohman struck out.

Kane singled to right and Greenhalge went to second. Dee closed the inning with a grounder to Cooney.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

Score—Lowell 2, Worcester 7.

Eighth Inning

Tyler was hit by a pitched ball. He was forced at second a moment later when Van Dyke bunted to Lohman. Maloney drew a pass. Strands singled to center filling the bases. Potteiger flied to Parker on the right field foul line. Van Dyke started for home after the ball had been caught but he was nailed on Parker's perfect throw to the plate.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Stimpson flied to Potteiger. Parker popped a fly to Tyler. Helrich sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Torphy singled to left. He went to second on Greenhalge's scratch hit. O'Connell hit to Fewster and Greenhalge was forced at second.

One run, three hits, no errors.

Score—Lowell 3, Worcester 7.

Ninth Inning

Cooney singled to center. Gardella flied to Parker. Cooney was out trying to steal second. Werre grounded out to Torphy.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Kilbullen went in to bat for Lohman.

RAILROAD STRIKE NEAR WILSON GOES TO CAPITOL

Unions Say Only Concession of 8 Hour Day or Action by Congress Can Prevent Break

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—With negotiations for averting the threatened railway strike practically at a deadlock, President Wilson today suddenly went to the capitol and conferred with administration leaders over the possibility of legislation.

The president conferred first with Democratic Leader Kern and Chairman Newlands of the Interstate Commerce commission, who, it was understood, after a canvass of the congressional situation and concluded it was feasible to get through congress before adjournment, as an amendment to the pending bill to increase the membership of the Interstate Commerce commission some sort of an expression that the railways should be authorized to make rate increases to meet the higher wages and to provide some sort of machinery for arbitration for similar disputes in the future, possibly along the lines of the Canadian commission.

Just before the president went to the capitol the brotherhood leaders, impatient at the delay of executive leaders in replying to the president's last proposal, declared that only an unconditional concession of the eight-hour day or some action by congress to cause the government to operate the railroads could prevent the threatened strike.

On all hands the president's visit to the capitol was taken as indicating that the situation had reached a crisis. Late this afternoon the railway executives still were working on their communication to President Wilson.

Later it was learned at the capitol that the president told the senators the railroad executives had "put it up to him" to get some guarantee from congress that they would be permitted to get more revenue to meet the increase in wages. It was said no means of accomplishing that end was agreed upon.

man. He struck out. Kane singled to right center. Dee singled to center field. Stimpson flied to Maloney and Kane was doubled up at second.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

HE LOST $14,000,000

PATRICK CALHOUN, GRANDSON OF FAMOUS STATESMAN IS BROKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Patrick Calhoun, grandson of the famous statesman and prominently identified with the San Francisco street car strike of 1906, testified in a receivership proceeding that five dollars was the only tangible asset remaining of a fortune of $14,000,000 possessed by him five years ago. The proceedings became known today.

Financial reverses following the earthquake and fire in San Francisco were responsible for his losses, he asserted.

hospitality and the company employes who gathered at Canobie from the three principal cities along the Merrimack valley anticipated a splendid day. The committee in charge saw that their anticipations were realized and there wasn't a dull moment in the whole day.

The outing was scheduled to open at 10 o'clock. The Lowell delegation left this city on the 9.15 o'clock car and hence were a little late in arriving. A splendid program of sports was arranged by the committee which had attractions for all employes. These included a rival ball game between the Lowell and Framingham divisions, a ladies' ball game between the operators of Lowell and Lawrence, a 100-yard dash for men.

HEARING ON THE L. & M.

RAILROAD'S FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES WILL BE DISCUSSED TUESDAY

BOSTON, August 26.—The Boston and Maine railroad's financial difficulties will be discussed in the United States district court here next Tuesday. Judge William L. Putnam having sent word from his summer home at Mount Kineo, Me., today that he had issued an order of notice returnable on that date for a hearing in connection with equity proceedings looking to receivership for the road.

It is understood the hearing will embrace all pending proceedings in the case. To date, these include a creditors' petition for a receiver filed by the Intercontinental Rubber company of New Jersey, a note holder; a similar plea by Edward P. Seales of New York, who owns bonds of the company and a petition in opposition by Francis V. Streeter of Medford, a minority stockholder. It was considered probable also that a counsel for Concord and Montreal and Connecticut River railroads, lined under lease to the Boston and Maine, would enter an appearance in the case.

THE HURDY GURDY BOYS

YOUNG MEN SINGING AND SELLING SONGS TO PAY WAY TO GOLDEN GATE

Charles Coleman, Louis Schaeffer, Charles E. Mason and Herman Gilbert, of New York, who are known as the Hurdy Gurdy boys they having appeared on the vaudeville stage for several years, are spending a few days in Lowell on their transcontinental trip. New York to San Francisco on a wagon of $200.

The young men are possessed of rare voices and have failed to attract attention. The Harmony Singing club, of New York, wagered that the boys could not make the trip across the continent solely on the proceeds of songs which they sang in the street.

The quartet secured an automobile and a hurdy gurdy and started off with 500 copies of three songs, namely: "Your Mother Is Your Best Friend After All," "Where Is My Marjane?" and "You're the Nicest Little Girl I Ever Knew." There is no limit to the time that they reach San Francisco, the only stipulation being that they have got to pay all their expenses from the sale of the compositions. They have traveled through a portion of New York state, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts and spent a little time in every city and town of any size.

Last night the boys entertained several hundred people in Jackson street near the corner of Central street with their songs and found ready purchasers. The young men have been on the vaudeville stage for some time appearing in dancing and singing troupes. Gilbert is a cousin of Wolfe Gilbert, a well known song composer.

WOMAN SHOT AS SPY

PET TO DEATH IN MARSEILLES ON AUGUST 22, SAYS GERMAN REPORT

BRUXELLES, Aug. 26. (By wireless to Sayville)—In Marseilles on Aug. 22, a woman named Pfaut, 25 years old, was shot as a spy, says the Overseas News agency. "She had appealed against the death sentence of the court martial at Marseilles but the Paris court of appeals rejected her plea." The Cologne Gazette states this is not the first case in which the French have put a woman to death during the war. "It recalls the agitation of the English and French press in regard to the case of Miss Edith Cavell, whose execution for high treason and continued spying caused these newspapers to express indignation." The Cologne Gazette asks whether the same ideas will hold good now that a German woman has been put to death by the French.

A Marseilles despatch of August 22 told of the execution of Felice Pfaut as a spy.

The charge against Miss Cavell, who was put to death in Brussels last fall, was given in despatches at that time as having assisted British, French and Belgians to escape from Belgium.

EARL ADAMS INJURED

While operating a motorcycle in Powell street about 9 o'clock this morning, Earl Adams, aged about 23 years and living in Chelmsford Centre, was struck by an automobile belonging to a Mr. Nichols of Lawrence. The automobile was coming through Smith street and Adams was traveling along Powell street when both vehicles came together. Adams was thrown to the ground and suffered a laceration on the head and received a general shaking up. The ambulance was summoned and the young man was taken to the Lowell hospital.

of the most interesting of New York charities is depicted herewith. It shows Mrs. G. F. Gould, in society, reading to the inmates of the Home for Destitute Blind. It really puts many seeing shame to discuss the topics of the day with these blind women, for they are "up" in anything in the rent events, and they can discuss the changes in the map of Europe with accuracy and fluency. As I gossip, civic welfare and the many other subjects which appear in the dailies and magazines, they discussed by these blind women. Every morning Mrs. Gould and several other ladies spend hours reading along the news. While they read about the "eyes" (fingers) of the sightless men and busily engaged in their daily work, caning chairs, knitting, sewing, crocheting, etc.

and quarters burn up the boys are waiting for the chap who laughs last also. Not often you find a post fool ought to be able to a ladder. quick, cheap lunch is no longer quick or cheap. That eggs are five cents apiece. Curses on the war. That the amateur gardeners are harvesting their crops. That the A.O.H. visitors were much impressed with Lowell. That the O.M.I. Cadets had a great time at camp this week. That work on the new charter is of the soft shoe variety. That Nantasket is not nearly so popular as it used to be. That some men will do almost anything for money, except work. That the clean up campaign includes everybody in Lowell. That Henry Sullivan suffered no ill effects from his great swim. That Lowell people are very numerous at Lynn beach this season. That boating and bathing accidents are quite numerous of late. That the mayor and superintendent of police ought to pull together. That it puzzles one a bit to name the three smartest women in town. That the best steamer in Lowell says Rutland, Vt. is some city. That Charlie Morse says he won't sign that bill, and that settles it. That there's heaps of time wasted in life looking for four-leafed clover. That our hat is off to the intrepid little commander of the Deutschland. That there are men who would rather go to the state farm than work. That once a politician always a politician, seems a truism. Look 'em over. That the number of non-support cases in this city is increasing rapidly. That there's no danger of the whiskey bottle blushing for the trouble it starts. That the marriages in August have been almost as numerous as those in June. That the man who attempts to do everything wastes a lot of valuable time. That the latest "special" at the Boston soda fountains is the "Billy Sunday." That Swimmer Henry Sullivan has done a great deal to keep Lowell on the map. That Jimmie Mercuryfoot forgot about the elevators and walked ten stories. That Ed. Draper displayed some class at the big Baltimore convention. That the less some people know about the war the more they talk about it. That autoists will rejoice when the collection of tolls at Hampton bridge is stopped. That the breakers at Salisbury beach are not excelled this side of the bay of Fundy. That any police court justice will tell you Mr. Incompatibility is a great home-smasher.

That a cigaret is objectionable because it is an unsatisfactory substitute for tobacco. That the New York papers are beginning to "ride" Manager McGraw and his Giants.

That many people in North Chelmsford would like that village were annexed to Lowell.

That the boys are rehearsing for that minstrel show to be given in Nashua Sept. 5.

That jumping at conclusions doesn't always help a man in his race for bread and butter.

That the A.O.H. convention brought a lot of good, clean, thrifty, enterprising people to Lowell.

That although we are almost free from infantile paralysis we know not when it may strike us.

That with both Boston teams appearing in a world's series, the Hub would have a civil war.

That some of the barrooms lost money on their decorations for the Bibernian convention.

That people who get high salaries are paid for the "know how" more than anything else.

That there will be something doing at the Martin Luther grounds next Thursday afternoon.

That the latest list of French fiction issued by the city library contains many interesting books.

That the vicinity of city hall on a Friday morning looks like a parking place for automobiles.

That it certainly looks good for the Boston ball clubs to have a world's series all by themselves.

That Clement Trudeau is soon to resume his violin practice much to the pleasure of his friends.

That everybody hopes President Wilson will be successful in his efforts to avert a big railroad strike.

That some men are called "slick" and "silly" because they have gone through life without working.

That there are several hundred ways of being good, but sometimes we can't think of a single one of 'em.

That the elevator man in Runels building was never so busy as he was the first three days of this week.

That Putnam and Morse disagree on many subjects pertaining to municipal affairs, particularly road work.

That Dr. Gagnon's new cottage at Salisbury beach is a beauty and suitable for either winter or summer.

That Zeppelins raid England with almost as much regularity as the Lowell ball club loses ball games.

That the reason some cops don't show up when the fight is on is because they don't want to get kicked.

That delegates to the A.O.H. convention gave Lowell stores a great card. They also said some nice things about The Sun.

That the old-fashioned town which advertised for a barber who could play clarinet in the band has gone by the boards.

That the girl who has spent the best years of her life in a factory and has not improved her condition has our sympathy.

That we meet a great many people who will never go to heaven. And see 'em, sometimes, when we look in the mirror.

That when you have a little leisure with nothing particular to do it isn't a bad idea to pay some of the bills you owe.

That hardship is variously defined. But riding on some of the street cars in Lowell and elsewhere is as good a definition as any.

That if Jesse Burkett gets Lowell out of the cellar he will be a candidate for George Stallings' title, "The Miracle Man."

That the jitney service has received a severe bump at Salisbury beach where strict rules and big license fees are enforced.

That a Lowell man and his wife got a terrible scare at Lynn beach when part of a far barrel bobbed up beside them in the water.

That John Cotter says the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit has no significance except that it indicates the rabbit was unlucky.

That Sid hiked about seven miles Wednesday afternoon when he was caught in that electric storm between Manchester and Nashua.

That two Lowell stiffs say they saw a man eating sharks on their way home from Nantucket. The man must have been awfully hungry.

That now and then you see a man who has done his best in life and right next to him another man who has done his best friends.

The man who sits down on a blueberry pie at a picnic seldom thinks much of the others who are disappointed about the pie.

That the residents of Moody street were under the impression that there was an explosion at the U. S. Cart-ridge plant, yesterday morning.

That delegates to the A.O.H. convention didn't think Lowell has too many hotels. Some of the delegates were obliged to go to lodging houses.

That local semi-professional teams would draw even larger crowds to their games if they would cut the rough stuff and play straight baseball.

That when you have a little cold that you think will last a day or two, it isn't very comforting to have a reputable physician declare you have hay fever.

That the delegates to the A. O. H. convention did not care much for the free out-of-town newspapers left on their chairs at the banquet Tuesday evening.

That one of the reasons why Lowell's alleys and other places are not as clean as they might be is because the number of garbage wagons remains the same year after year.

That Hon. John E. Drury had a narrow escape from serious injury in falling upon an oil soaked street as he stepped from a car. As it was he suffered abrasions on the face and had a suit of clothes destroyed.

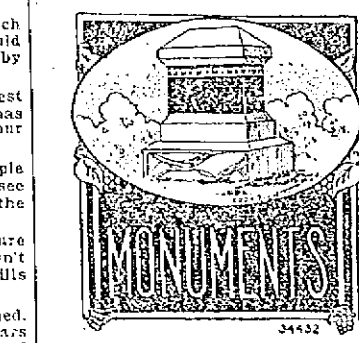

That Congressman Gardner continues to get his. Cole gave it to him in Lowell, but the way Secretary Daniels slammed him at Milbridge, Me., last evening would make even Ty Cobb sit up and take notice.

To find out why the Dardanelles and Mesopotamian campaigns resulted so disastrously for Great Britain, the British government has appointed two commissioners to make investigation. Lord George Hamilton heads the body which is looking into the Mesopotamian failure, while Lord Cromer is chief investigator into the reasons for the abandonment of the Dardanelles attack.

PRATT A WONDERFUL SECOND BASEMAN, SAYS VETERAN

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—"Talk about second basemen! Show me one in the American league who has anything on Pratt of the St. Louis Browns," said a veteran pitcher to Fielder Jones recently. "Pratt is not flashy and perhaps does not stand out like Johnny Evers, but he is there every second. He covers as much if not more ground than Barry of the Red Sox," continued the veteran. "If I were a manager of a team and had a chance to grab either Pratt or Barry I would prefer the former. He is one of the best the American league has produced," concluded the veteran.

GREAT YEAR FOR CULLOP

YANKEE STAR PITCHER HAS
RUNG UP 13 VICTORIES AND
SUFFERED ONE DEFEAT

If the Yankees could depend on Nick Culp to use his left-handed persuasion in their behalf every day, Manager Bill Donovan would not be unduly concerned over the matter of the six games that now separate his club from first place. The former Federal leaguer has not only pitched with great effectiveness this season, but he has had the rare good fortune to always get support from the club. Culp is now setting sail for an unusual distinction in pitching. If he can continue at his present rate through the remaining weeks of the campaign he will undoubtedly emerge as the champion pitcher of both leagues, as far as a winning percentage is concerned, if not for real effectiveness in the matter of runs scored per inning.

When Nick set the Chicago White Sox down at the Polo grounds in New York it was his thirteenth victory for the season against one defeat. It was also the fourth time he had tossed a defeat into the teeth of Rowland's men without drawing a loss, so that as a nemesis he splits it fifty-fifty with Eddie Cicotte.

Culp has not been ranked as a real star. In fact this is the first year he ever drew any particular attention. One season hardly entitles him to rank with Johnson or Grover Cleveland Alexander, whose record for 13 shutouts sets a new mark for the boys to shoot at.

But to have trailed into the latter part of August with 13 victories and only one defeat gives Nick a distinction which few players ever achieve. It is a rare feat, considering that Culp has been worked in his regular turn and has stacked up against all comers without any thought of picking his spots.

As a matter of fact, he has faced some of the toughest clubs in the league as they are rated by pitchers. Four of his wins were from Chicago, probably the strongest hitting club in the league. Detroit contributed two and gave him his only black mark. Cleveland has been his victim twice, while the other wins are scattered among the Athletics, Browns and Washington. Detroit beat him on July 14 after he had won ten straight, and it took him twelve innings to accomplish his downfall.

Had it not been for his injury on July 18, which kept him out of the game until August 6, Culp might have added some more to his string, as the Yankees met Chicago and Detroit during that time, two of his pet victims.

Coming with a reputation to make instead of one to sustain probably has had something to do with his success. He has gone on from day to day without any strain attaching to his efforts, and the reputation has just grown on him.

WORCESTER BATTED HARD

Fell on Lowell Pitchers for 20 Hits That Netted 12 Runs—Locals Count Four Times

Worcester players fattened their batting averages at a tremendous clip at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon, falling upon the Lowell pitchers for 20 hits in the biggest batting carnival seen here this season. A few of the locals also slugged the ball a little as Pitcher McGinley was touched up for 13 hits, but many of these failed to figure in the run-scoring. The score at the end of the matinee was 12 to 4 with Lowell, as usual, on the short end.

"Lefty" Smith, recently of the Worcester camp, was the chief factor in the afternoon session. After pitching shut out ball for four innings Smith was hit at will by the Hamiltons who scored eight runs off him in the fifth and sixth. Then Clarence Parker was shifted from right field to the pitcher's box and he did all right until the ninth when a base on balls, three singles and a double gave the visitors three more runs.

Jesse Burkett entered the game in the seventh when all hope was lost. Jesse drove in a run on an infield out and later scratched a hit down Gardella's way.

For four innings it looked like a real ball game with both Smith and McGinley pitching in rare form, backed by good fielding. Then came the bombardment. With one down, singles by McGinley, Maloney, Strands, Conney and Gardella and a double by Potteiger counted five runs. Lowell failed to do anything in her half and again in the sixth Strands, Potteiger, Conney, Gardella and Tyler swung their clubs against the ball for clean hits and three more runs were added to the score. Smith had nothing but a good motion.

Lowell scored a run in the sixth on singles by Stimpson and Parker and Helfrich's grounder to Fawcett and added another in the seventh when Maloney allowed Torphy's drive to get by him. Torphy taking second and counting a moment later on a single by base.

A run was added by the visitors in the eighth when Potteiger cracked out his third hit of the game and scored on Conney's third safe drive. Lowell threatened a great rally in the eighth, but the side was retired with three men on bases and two runs in. Stimpson, Parker and Helfrich singled in succession. Then Gilmore, a rookie who was given a trial by Burkett, struck out. Torphy slammed a single to left and Stimpson and Parker crossed the plate. Greenhalge foul-tied to Gardella. Old Jesse then surprised Gardella by bunting along the third base line while the latter was playing deep, but Dee ended the stanza with an easy fly to Conney.

Parker's delivery failed him in the ninth. Werre's double, a base on balls to Fawcett, and singles by Tyler, Maloney and Strands scored the last three runs of the day.

Fawcett was the only Worcester player who did not get into the hit column. Tyler led with four bingles and was robbed of a perfect average by a nice catch by Parker. Conney's work at shortstop was brilliant. Torphy and Stimpson batted well for the fallen Lowellites while Stimpson's base running and fielding was also of high order.

The score:

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

New pitchers are badly needed.

No more home games until Labor Day.

Gilmore, the youngster tried out at short, bails from Roxbury. He appeared nervous both in the field and at the bat.

Stimpson made a nice throw in the seventh when after catching a fly he doubled Tyler up at the initial sack. Stimpson also continued his good batting with three hits which gives him a total of 104 to date.

In the eighth Conney stole second before the ball was delivered. Parker threw to Helfrich who was slow in fielding the ball and Conney was safe.

Catcher Tyler, a brother of Lefty George, has just returned to the game after being laid up for several weeks. He certainly hit the ball on the nose, securing four hits in five times at bat.

Potteiger, the former Lowell player, got in wrong with the crowd by kicking over a decision and he was given a great roasting later when he tried to steal third with the bases full.

Torphy's batting shows a welcome improvement. He has secured several hits in the three games played here since the team returned from the trip.

Jimmy Conney's work at shortstop was without fault. He accepted nine chances, many of them difficult ones, with great ease. Besides he drove out three hits and stole a couple of bases.

When Smith was taken out, Rosack and Zieser were the only pitchers on the Lowell bench. Rosack had worked the day before and Burkett wanted to save Zieser for one of today's games. Hence Parker was brought in from right field.

Prior to yesterday, Pat Maloney, the Worcester slugger left fielder had secured but one hit in 13 trips to the plate. He made three out of six yesterday.

Pitcher Hearne of New London won his own game yesterday with a single in the eleventh. It was one of three extra inning games in the league.

Joe Burns, the Portland centre fielder, will be out of the game for about 10 days with an injured shoulder. Tamm, who has made a great utility man for Portland, is playing centre.

The Lawrence Tribune, says an exchange, picks Zeke Lohman for a second Eastern league team. The selections for the All Star team are Martin and Durning of Portland, Turner of Lynn, Hearne of New London and Pennington of Lawrence. Lohman, with a tail end team, has a better record than two of the Lawrence paper's selections.

Gaston and Beatty of Portland have been recalled by the Providence and Rochester clubs, respectively. In the International league.

As soon as Connie Mack walked into the grounds yesterday he spied Dick Durning who was in street clothes and looking after the gate. He walked over, extended his right hand, and said: "Well, Dick, how is everything? I am keeping tabs on you and notice that you are pitching great ball." Durning was at Mack at one time. Mack picked him off the lot.—Lawrence Tribune.

AL DELMONT BEATEN

YOUTH IS AGAIN SERVED IN FAST BOUT IN BOSTON—YOUNG
BRITT THE WINNER

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Once more, the same as was the case last week, youth was served in the main bout at the Commercial A.C. of the West End. The veteran who had to bow down to a youngster this time was Al Delmont of the North End, who started into the openweight game just at about the same time as did Matty Baldwin, who went down to defeat last Friday night at the hands of Harry Carlson. Delmont could not offset the brilliancy of that rugged little New Bedford lad, Young Britt, and had to take the short end of the decision given by Referee Jack Sheehan, who refereed Delmont's first bout.

All the time that he could bring together were used by the veteran, but it availed little against the strong boxing which the kid showed. At times Delmont flailed and swung snappy punches which certainly were not enjoyed by Britt. But for the most of the time Al was on the receiving end.

Even as early as the second round, Delmont first appeared to be feeling the effects of the toughness of Britt, and in the fifth and sixth as well as in later rounds, it was all the veteran

THE SHORT SHIP

James W. Goes Mile in 2:12 1-2 and 2:13 at Fair Grounds

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 26.—The third and last day of the Marshfield Agricultural and Horticultural society fair brought out a record attendance, and at the afternoon Bay State Short Ship races the grand stand and edge of the track were crowded.

Among the visitors were Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, democratic candidate for nomination for governor, Mrs. Mansfield and Mayor and Mrs. Curley of Boston. The mayor and Mrs. Mansfield spoke from the judges' stand.

The feature race of the afternoon was the special free-for-all trot, in which the track record for trotting, 2:14, was lowered by James W., driven by D. Warman, who went the mile in 2:12 1/2 and 2:13.

The races started with the Mayflower 2:18 class, with six starters. In the second heat Jack Kingsley, driving Leo Perrin, and Fred Bellows, driving his fast pacer, were in collision. Kingsley was thrown and dragged some distance along the track, when his horse bolted. He clung to the reins and escaped serious injury. This race went five heats, in which all finishes were very close.

In the Tom Alden purse, 2:30 class pacing, Little Nancy, driven by Frank Burke, and Direct Audubon, driven by M. McDermott, had exciting brushes in each heat. As Mr. McDermott came to the wire to dismount, dressed in a green driving suit and cap, the band played the "Wearing of the Green," and the starter introduced him to the people as the veteran driver of the circuit, he being 52 years old. He was given an ovation. The summary:

CUTSHAW HOLDING DOWN SECOND FOR BROOKLYN IN MASTERLY

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26.—A star at second base means a win for many of the experts, and the history of baseball seems to prove being the case, then the Brooklyn Dodgers should be winners, for a more capable second baseman in the National league or any other than the gangling guardian of Brooklyn's keystone corner the dope Cutshaw may not be a handsome figure on the diamond, his style may not have the grace of Eddie Collins or the fine and snappy Evers, but he delivers the goods and in large packages. He is a ground coverer, a dangerous hitter and a brash, disciple of Chase learned the rudiments of baseball at Notre Dame university, a has turned out many a good one. Before his college days he played ball with Bloomington in the "Three I" league under the Stevens to preserve his amateur standing. His advancement. He went in 1909 to the Coast league from Bloomington, and years' service there advanced to Brooklyn, where he has since fixture, each season seeing him become more valuable to his club, it is repeated, there is not a better second baseman in the docters have but to watch his work each day to have their vines.

noon. The Trojan, who still suffers from neuritis, will rest up for a time and probably join the team when it gets back to Boston. It is generally believed by the Braves that a trade for Zimmerman has been completed and that the great Zim will join the team just as soon as the present series ends.

Fred Luderus of the Phils, according to Hal Chase, throws as swiftly and accurately as any first baseman he has ever seen in the big leagues. "That fellow Luderus has enough speed to be a pitcher," says Chase. "He fires that ball from first base to third on the line. He is a big man and he puts that weight back in his throws, and this is what makes them travel so fast."

WHY CONDITIONS ARE OUT OF JOINT

Prosperity Has Produced Enormous Wastefulness in Our Standards of Living — Business Education the Magic Wand Whose Touch Will Bring Security

By Jacques H. DeLamere,

Copyright 1916—All Rights Reserved

"That conditions are 'out of joint' may well be the opinion of every one who provides for the home. It is easy to say 'Something out to be done about it'—but what? Meanwhile the clamor of voices continues, and the market basket is soaring higher than ever, day by day.

"The prosperity of this country has produced a wastefulness that has extended to the laboring multitude," writes William E. Channing, the eminent student of domestic science. "A man here turns with scorn from fare that in many countries would be termed luxurious. It is indeed important that the standard of living in all classes should be high; that is, it should include the comforts of life, the means of neatness and order in our dwellings, and such supplies of our wants as are fitted to secure vigorous health.

"But how many waste their earnings on indulgences which may be spared, and have no resources for a dark day, and are always trembling on the brink of pauperism! Needless expenses keep too many poor for self-improvement. And here let me say, that expensive habits among the more prosperous laborers often interfere with the mental culture of themselves and their families. How many sacrifice improvement to appetite! How many of them sacrifice it to love of show; to desire of outstripping others, and to habits of expense which grow out of this insatiable passion!"

Our Standards of Living

A striking division of classes according to their thrift tendencies is made by Col. D. M. Bond, of Cleveland, Ohio. He says:

"The normal family during normal conditions, unconsciously establishes a standard of living with its income as a basis for fixing the standard. If the members are frugal, they will save a little each payday for the unexpected. This is one of the best types to deal with when the time comes that makes borrowing a necessity. Another standard is that of the family that lives just within its income, and if any surplus remains after the current bills are paid, usually spends it.

"Another is that whose expenses are always just a little more than its income, and which is always in debt. Another family which has assumed obligations it cannot fulfill; the family which has purchased a home and has agreed to make payments larger than its income justifies, is an example.

"Another, the family whose members believe that the world owes them a living whether they work or not. If they owe money, they believe they are justified in postponing payment as long as they can, and if they have any money, they spend it for such purposes as will bring the most pleasure, and for which they cannot secure credit. Another standard is that of the family whose income is less than will supply the actual necessities of life and which depends upon sources outside its own income to fill out the deficit."

Importance of Education

"It is my belief," recently remarked Mr. E. R. Kimball, principal of the Lowell Commercial College, to the writer, "that the instillation of business principles—such as those now in vogue in the leading business colleges throughout the United States—in the minds of the great and growing army of young men and young women, will, in time, materially mitigate if not eradicate, this wastefulness which is everywhere now apparent.

"There is a steadily increasing demand upon the part of the large manufacturers and capitalists of industry, for employees who have taken a post-graduate course in business technique. These employees, all entering as they do, into the offices and service of industrial and mercantile plants, receive an added business education which in turn serves to enlighten them in a manner which is best calculated to bring to the surface all of their intellectual talents—and these ideas will later be given full reign in conducting their homes."

Bread and Meat Education

"I remember," continued Mr. Kimball, "of reading an expression by the president of one of the great educational institutions, in which he said: 'An education that does not connect somewhere with the bread and meat question is a poor excuse for an education.'

"Education for education's sake is a good thing, but an education that can be put to a practical use—one that has a dollar and cents value—one that can be used immediately and continuously as a money earning asset—one that lifts you from the ranks of the poorly paid and overworked masses, and puts you in the well-paid class, is an education worth the while.

"More education is of little value as a money earning asset unless you have associated with it skill acquired through practical training. It is the duty of every parent to see to it that their children are educated. If the student and the parent are wise, both will recognize the value of a school where practical training and education both go hand in hand, can be put into actual use and that in reality connects with the daily bread and meat question throughout life. It is the student of this type who will soonest solve the proper standard of living problem, for through such training will true economy and thrift be better recognized and understood."

The Purpose of Thrift

In the everyday spending of everyday people, is an enormous purchasing power. What is needed is the application of this power and the application of more intelligence in buying; to know the money value of a dollar and what it will buy if judiciously expended; to buy the best at all times; to buy only what is needed, regardless of the tempting cry of the "bargain" vendor; to buy of reliable merchants in one's own town—and practice common sense in the management of the household.

Not only can everybody exercise thrift, but it can be exercised all the time. The workman can put his tools in place when he is done with them and so save time hunting them up again when he needs them. The farmer can house his implements in winter instead of leaving them exposed to the weather, because this will mean a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent in his implement bills. And so with everything thrift is the working of an orderly mind that seeks for the best results of every act.

Our present wants seem big to us, but we know by experience that others will arise by and by that will be far bigger—so big that they cannot be covered unless we have some of our present money to help out the earnings of that future time. In this real sense, thrift goes with every cent, and there is nobody who has money to spend but is called upon to be thrifty in the spending of it. To teach us the relative importance of the wants of today and the wants of tomorrow, is the true purpose of thrift.

Thrift is shown in its clearest form by Thoreau, when he quotes an ancient philosopher as declaring that "A man is rich in proportion to the number of things he can do without."

This is a forbidding sound, and yet it really is the word of liberty and happiness. Self-indulgence is a hard task-master; his demands are never satisfied. But when one determines to limit his wants, he gains a mastery of himself and of his circumstances. This after all, is what economy is for. This self-mastery which limits wants within the means that exist for supplying those wants, is what we call thrift, and this is a lesson that the world is learning in the hard school of present experience.

Labor Should Be Compensated

In a report to the chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations, the body which brought the sensational evidence on the part of some of the greatest capitalists of industry in this country, and which report is concurred in by three other commissions, it is clearly set forth that saving as a provision for the future is just as important as is the expenditure to meet daily needs. The report says:

"The welfare of the state demands that the useful labor of every able-bodied workman should, as a minimum, be compensated by sufficient income to support in comfort himself, his wife and at least three minor children, and, in addition, provide for sickness, old age and disability. Under no other conditions can a strong, contented, efficient citizenship be developed."

It might be added that it would be no more fair or reasonable for a workman so compensated to waste that part of his income which ought to provide for the future, than it would be for him to waste the money intended for food today.

To rail at the rule of money; to belittle the saving of money, is as factious as an expression of sentiment which everybody feels at some time or another; but when we adjust our sentiments to the realities of life, we feel that the man who has saved money when he could is most likely to spend it wisely when he must; and, having money, and spending it wisely, is the word whose magic touch brings forth almost everything we need.

High School Plans
The plans for the proposed new high school are about completed and the specifications are under way. The mayor received a letter to that effect today from Architect Henry L. Bourke, who is in charge of the plans, and he will call a meeting of the school and advisory boards after Labor day.

A copy of the letter received by His Honor is as follows:

August 25, 1916.
Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: With reference to the plans for the Lowell high school, I wish to inform you that the plans are about completed, and the specifications are now under way. If you think it advisable to have a conference with the school committee and the advisory board before the specifications are completed and put into the market for bids, will you please call a meeting for whatever time you may think best. Sincerely yours,
Henry L. Bourke.

Given Other Duties
Patrolman William Grady, who was yesterday assigned to special work in connection with the cleaning campaign organized by the board of health, started on his new duties this morning. In addition to helping clean the city, Officer Grady will also look after minor cases brought to the attention of the police, such as defacing buildings, breaking panes of glass, etc., which is a hobby with many children. When such a case will be reported at the station Officer Grady will be detailed to investigate.

WILL ADJOURN THURSDAY

Democratic and Republican Leaders in Get-Together Movement for Adjournment of Congress

Special to The Sun

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26.—There get-together movement on foot between democratic and republican leaders points to an adjournment on Friday, August 21st. The revenue bill will be out of the way and all congressional measures agreed to, a quorum obtained if the shipping bill or other contested measure requires it, and the president is anxious for adjournment shall have taken place before he leaves for Shadow on Friday to receive formal notice of his nomination the following day. To this program the republicans are said to be favorably inclined. Moreover no one wants to run risk of having congress drawn into threatened strike complications by advocates of the immigration bill at its late session, and the early adjournment is given place to assertions that a certain veto if it forced to now. Probably no fixed date will be agreed upon until within a couple days of actual adjournment, but August 21st is the favorite hazard at the moment, although some of the key senators hope to throw in a key-veto that will block the revenue bill by getting before congress some of the matters which the congress agreed should be carried over till December.

Little Bit Personal

With the official temperature at the weather bureau close to the 100 mark and the official record touching 101 at its down town station touching 101 in the shade the tempers of the senators showed an equal rise. The immigration and revenue bills had roused them to a high pitch; party insurgents from caucus rule fanned themselves with big palm leaves while they "sassed back" at the regulation leaders who did not mind their words of condemnation as they tried in vain to haul them back into line. Senator Ellison Smith of South Carolina, who had been acting as convoy to the immigration bill, raised havoc with the cut and dried caucus plans by trying to force the immigration bill to a vote, and thereby displace the revenue bill. Senators Stone, Chamberlain and Kern vainly tried to hold him down, and Senator Smith poured out the bottles were empty. The republicans at first sat still and enjoyed the sport but when Senator Martine, in a high pitched voice and with threatening gestures began a genealogical investigation of the ancestry of the senators, the republicans took a hand in the argument. Martine wanted the literary clause struck out. Said he, "Under that clause the grandfathers of many of us could not have entered this country," and he pointed squarely at Senators O'Gorman, Gallinger, Nelson and others of foreign parentage. Senator Ballinger waved a big fan and protested that his grandfather did not come under that clause; then Senator Penrose made injurious comments on the democratic wrangle, at which Senator Stone caustically remarked, "It's our quarrel, and you republicans have no right to butt in." Somehow civil service got mixed up in it whereupon Senator Thomas and Senator Hardwick had a fairly fit as it were, and were likely to get to heaven. In the midst of a battle of words, Mr. Hardwick said, "I don't agree with you but perhaps I will when we meet in heaven." "I'm afraid you will never get there," said Thomas. "We as good as chance as you have," retorted Hardwick. A thunder shower just then dropped the mercury a dozen degrees—and peace was restored.

The National Guard

Out at Fort Myer the National Guard is still in camp waiting orders to go to the border. A night or two ago, the guard on duty saw a big black object slip out of the cook's tent. "Halt, Halt, who goes there?" he called. No reply came. His challenge roused the other watch and in a minute the black object came near. It wagged its tail and in its mouth was a big slab of bacon—it was the cook's mascot, raising the cook's tent where he had feasted on steak. The officer of the guard caught the dog, and in the morning took him before the commanding officer for sentence. The dog was banished from camp, but the young sentry who cried "Halt, who goes there?" to him, will be old and gray before the boys get through joking him about it.

Why Not Can 'Em?

With the high cost of print paper the "leave to speak," or extend remarks in the Congressional Record means much money to be paid out by the government. It is estimated that on one afternoon this week so many such requests from members of the house were granted that not less than a billion words will result. All this matter is sent out in the form of speeches in the Congressional Record and if of a political nature, as most of it is, it will also be printed in special form and sent out by the congressmen to their constituents under the congressional rank. The topics ranged from the need of a new postoffice building in a small western town to "The industrial relations of this government with other governments from the time of the foundation of this government to the present time." That last is by Cullion of Indiana and if he don't leave out anything is likely to take some miles of paper to print it.

Old Wills Restored

The wills of George and Martha Washington have just been restored by an expert and are now safely lodged once more in the vaults of the Fairfax county court house over in Virginia. The wills had suffered from old age and much handling until they were in danger of being utterly destroyed. The restoration has been so well done that the wills now look as if just written.

All's Well That Ends Well

The recent marriage of State Senator Robert M. Washburn of Worcester and Miss Martha R. Clark of Baltimore is said to be the outcome of an interrupted romance of twenty years ago. As the story is told in Washington, where Mr. Washburn is a frequent visitor, he and Miss Clark were sweethearts in their youth, but the course of true love followed not the old adage and failed to run smooth; they drifted apart and not until this year did they again meet. But little Dan Cupid had not forgotten the early courtship, and a wedding quickly followed.

Must Be Some Chaps

Senator Oliver James of Kentucky, democrat, big of body, big of body, of hercule size, is credited with wearing a huge $150 Panama hat. But the senator says the new hat was a gift, and that he is not buying $150 hats, even at bargain counters.

TROLLEY STRIKE

The Bangor Carmen Demand Recognition of Union

BANGOR, Maine, Aug. 26.—The employees of the Bangor Railway and Electric company today inaugurated their strike for recognition of their union. In accordance with the strike vote taken last night, the cars began to go to the barns soon after 9 o'clock. At ten o'clock practically the entire system was tied up, with only two or three cars running. The union men claim that 35 per cent of their number, of which there are 102, had refused to work after 9 o'clock. President E. C. Ryder of the company, issued a statement that because of the company having kept faith with its men not to hire strikebreakers while negotiations were on, the company will not be able to operate cars at all times until Monday morning, after which it expects to resume schedule service. He stated further that the men reported by Organizer Shine have not modified their original demands which meant that the operating schedules and control and management of the men will be turned over to the employees. To this the company will never consent, he said. "The position of the company," as stated in the previous letters of the company, fully stated its position and there will be no modification of it." Organizer Thomas F. Shine stated that the demands of the men were for recognition of the union and that they do not want to share the control of the company with the officials; that the demands for submission of disagreements between the men and company to a joint arbitration board are confined to cases of unjust discipline of employees. He added that the strikers will be counseled not to use violence.

MARRIES CHAUFFEUR

MRS. MAUD B. TWOMBLEY, RICH WIDOW OF HAVERHILL, WEDDED AT PORTLAND

HAVERHILL, Aug. 26.—Word was received here yesterday, that Mrs. Maud B. Twombley, widow of Charles A. Twombley, who died three years ago, and well known in society circles, was married last Monday to Harold E. Tebbetts of 35 Fountain street, employed as a chauffeur by her. Mrs. Twombley was engaged in the undertaking business here, owning a large establishment. He bequeathed his estate, which was considered a large one, to his wife, Mr. Twombley, who had been married twice, was survived by two sons by his first wife. They contested the will, securing $5000 each. The bulk of the estate reverted to Mrs. Twombley. Tebbetts, who is 32 years old, has been in the employ of Mrs. Twombley about a year. A week ago last Wednesday, the couple left for Portland, Me., and died their marriage intentions at the city hall. They returned to Portland Monday, received their marriage license, and were married at the residence of Rev. C. A. Davis, 100 Spruce street, Portland. They returned to this city Tuesday, leaving for Hampton beach, where they are at present staying. Organizer Thomas F. Shine stated

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

WHY NOT ANNEXATION?

The tax rate of Dracont is announced as $23.00 or $3.40 higher than that of last year or $2.70 higher than the tax rate in Lowell. It is really surprising to find the patience with which the people of some towns, such as Dracont, continue to tolerate adverse conditions from which they might easily free themselves.

The Sun talked annexation to the people of Dracont until there could be no valid argument against it; but the people who believed in it refused to move in the matter while a few politicians got together to oppose any movement in that direction.

The city of Lowell does not want the town; but if any number of Dracont residents want to get about five times as much for their taxes as they get at present, they should start a movement for annexation of the entire town. How will they go about it? That seems to be the chief difficulty to be overcome. They have simply to get a lawyer to draw up a bill to be submitted to the legislature providing for the annexation of the entire town. If they want only a part of the town annexed, then they would have to get a surveyor or an engineer to give such a description of the area to be annexed as is given in a deed at the sale of any tract of land.

That would not be very expensive; but such a document is all that is needed to bring the question before the legislature. Any of the representatives would introduce the bill. Then the hearings would give those interested an opportunity to express their views in regard to the whole question. The measure would have to provide for a referendum to the voters of Lowell as the municipal council would scarcely feel warranted in favoring such a radical step unless authorized by a direct vote of the people.

A large proportion of the people of North Chelmsford are in favor of annexation as they want to enjoy the advantages of city government, such as fire and police protection, water service, free use of our public schools, better streets, and after a time better sewers also. The method of bringing up the matter is the same for North Chelmsford as for Dracont, and if a few of the residents get together to secure an engineer to give an accurate description of the part of the town to be annexed the rest would be easy.

Many North Chelmsford people have expressed a wish that the village were annexed; but as they did not care to go any farther nothing has been done in the matter. The Sun found enough of the people in favor but nobody ready to take the initiative. Thus the village of North Chelmsford will remain as it is and so will Dracont until the people who are bearing the burdens of town government decide to seek a change which will give them more for the money they pay out in taxes and in a short time double their population and treble the value of their land, a large proportion of which is waste and will remain so until the towns become part and parcel of Lowell. The growth of our city is being diverted where it would never go if Dracont and North Chelmsford were annexed. The immediate benefits to be derived from annexation would accrue to the territory annexed; but ultimately the city would be amply repaid by the rapid increase of population and through the advance in the value of taxable property due to building progress in the annexed district. All this would help to make Lowell a greater city, an end which we are all desirous to promote; but no such improvements can be brought about so long as the people of Dracont, of North Chelmsford and Billerica continue to be satisfied with paying high taxes while getting little in return for their money. The time is not far distant when Lowell will take in all of the adjoining towns. The one that comes over first will get the best treatment, not from preference but because of helping our city to provide the territory so very necessary for our future growth.

CHILDREN ON THE STREETS

In spite of all the accidents which recently occurred to children in this city, it would seem that parents are still negligent in allowing them to play on dangerous streets. There have been several fatal accidents on East Merrimack street and still, children of tender age can be seen there on the sidewalks and occasionally on the street, wholly unguarded by anybody old enough to realize the danger. The only way in which the parents of such little ones can be forced to take care of their children is to take the children from the streets to the police station and keep them there until the parents call for them. Then have the latter arraigned in court and fined for allowing the children to incur the danger of being killed. There is no law at the present time under which this can be done; but there should be such a law. It is greatly needed in Lowell to compel parents or guardians of small children to take proper care of them.

VERMONT'S EXAMPLE

The state of Vermont has been one of the first to make due allowance for the families of dependent soldiers on duty in the nation's service. A special session of the legislature has just dealt with the subject in what seems to be a very satisfactory manner. Each family may receive $35 monthly according to the number; where a wife only is in need she will receive $20 per month. Another measure provides that the state shall pay $10 a month in addition to the federal allowance of $15 to enlisted men. Vermont has thus set an example which other states will doubtless follow. The soldier should be paid enough to support his family or else the government that demands his service should see that the family is supported without being subjected to the stigma of pauperism.

THE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

The clean-up campaign is on; and let it be kept up indefinitely. Mayor O'Donnell's action in appointing a special officer to look after this matter alone may have a good effect, provided the co-operation of the entire force be not thus diminished or

President Wilson has appointed a republican judge, Charles M. Hough of New York, to the United States circuit court. His appointment makes the court of the circuit in which he is to serve, three to one republican. Yet Mr. Hughes finds Wilson's appointments extremely partisan.

It would appear that the European war or some other cause has disturbed the monsters of the deep, judging from the number of sharks that seek human fodder and the number of swordfish that have been raining small boats.

While the epidemic of infantile paralysis is abroad, it is well for all parents to keep their children out of public places wherever possible and to call a doctor promptly when any symptoms of illness appear.

The tariff on dyes is imposed to protect an infant industry. But when the infant reaches adult age it should be left to shift for itself. Yet the republican policy would never remove a tariff once imposed.

Cambridge school officials think it is wise to put off the opening of the schools until cooler weather. There is no need of such a precaution against infantile paralysis in this city.

It is alleged that the capture of the town of Mush in Armenia by the Russians does not mean that there will be any change in the diet of the natives.

The proposition in the U. S. senate to tax the profits of certain commodities may be the only method by which some combines may be restrained from plundering the public.

The tax rate of the city of Lawrence remains at $18.80, same as last year. Lawrence has not so many fires in the fire as we have.

SEEN AND HEARD

The man who is cocksure about "being saved" deserves serious study.

The canned music of your next-door neighbor is sometimes cheerful.

Not very many of us are loving our enemies to any great extent.

About three-quarters of your troubles are due to the garbage you toss into your stomach.

Then Mañana Blushed

May was enjoying her first experience of a wedding, and as she was only six, she found much to interest her.

The bridal couple had just departed in a shower of rice, and old and slippers, when May asked:

"Why did they all throw things at that pretty lady in the carriage?"

"For luck, my child," said a bridesmaid who stood near.

"And why," asked the child again, "doesn't the lady throw them back?"

"Oh, no," said a shocked answer, "that would be rude."

"Oh, no," it wouldn't," persisted May calmly, "mañana always does!"

Pattern Preferred

Stella called on her newly married friend, Bella, and found her sitting in a business-like overall, while her arms were full of fashion papers and cookery.

"Hello!" she exclaimed. "What are you going to make?"

"Some cakes," replied the young wife, proudly.

"But why have you got out those fashion papers, as well as the cookery books?"

"You see," confessed Bella, rather shamefacedly, "I'm a bit of a novice at cooking. Tell me, do you make cakes from a recipe or a pattern?"

"Absent-Minded Danger

"It is a serious drawback to success to be absent-minded," remarked Senator La Follette. "I recently heard of a very absent-minded lawyer who engaged a taxi cab and was driven to court in a heavy wind and rain storm."

On the way he overtook the judge, plodding along through the mud, and he halted the conveyance and invited the judge to ride with him.

"But when the court opened the judge repulsed the attorney coldly and contemptuously. As the poor fellow stood outside in the rain, he whispered to him: 'Do you know what you did? You hopped out of your taxi, ran in and left this honor to pay for the taxicab!'"

Clock Made of Straw

A clock made in Germany is constructed of nothing but straw. Not even a drop of stiffening cardboard or a piece of glue has been used.

It is six feet high and is two feet square. There are eight pendulums which allow speed regulation. By pressing a button which causes one pendulum to run on one side, the clockwork is set, and runs for five hours. By pushing another button, the hands can be set. The dial, of course, is painted on the straw chain, which is made of straw. The chain is 14 inches long and endless. In the construction of the clock, thousands of stalks of straw have been used, mostly from the straw of the year 1915. The clock is a masterpiece of straw work. Popular Science Monthly.

Called Down Boys

The late Richard Harding Davis got his first promotion by "pawling out the boss." Arthur Brisbane had been made managing editor of the paper. The 1894 Thanksgiving day football game between Yale and Princeton took place at Easton Park, Brooklyn, and young Davis was assigned to cover it, with a ticket entitling him to a place on the side line.

Mr. Brisbane went to the game and took a friend. The editor had a side-line ticket for himself, but none for a guest, so he sought to requisition the ticket of the young reporter. The latter's refusal was couched in language neither gentle nor diplomatic.

That night Mr. Brisbane went to the office and waited until Davis called. "What shall we do?" he asked. "Do?" retorted Mr. Brisbane. "Why, raise his salary!"

His Middle Name

"Em, for goodness' sake, get those kids to bed," grumbled Jenkins, who had vainly tried to settle down for a quiet five minutes.

The young Jenkinses went aloft, and there seemed some prospect of peace until Harold, the eldest, who had been allowed half an hour's grace, began bawling in with various queries.

"What on earth do you want now?" demanded the harassed parent, as he desperately flung down the paper.

"Well, dad, did Adam only have one name?"

"Of course he did. Now, look here, any more silly questions and you go to bed, too, my son."

"Yes, but can't I talk a little bit more about that question?"

"Go on with it," said the patient parent. "And, mind, this is the very last time."

"Well, was Adam his first name or his last name?"

tacks on our target practice and the publication of the facts in connection therewith have been of the greatest use to every enemy of the government, both in our own country and abroad.

"On the floor of congress," Mr. Daniels continued, "Mr. Gardner said he wished he could have the opinion of the official observer on our battle-ships as to his opinion. These are not my words, nor those of any politician, nor any civil appointee of a political party. They are uttered with full knowledge of his responsibility by one of the foremost officers of the United States army and an expert on these subjects."

Another question dealt with the type of torpedoes with which battleships were equipped. Mr. Gardner asserted that those in use in 1914 had been declared obsolete by navy ordinance officials. He asked if the secretary knew this when he issued his 1914 report.

"We not only knew it but were already manufacturing long range torpedoes to take their places," Mr. Daniels said, adding that these facts also had been in his own report and that of the chief of ordinance to which Mr. Gardner referred.

"I am also glad to inform him," he continued, "that since then all the dreadnaughts in commission have been equipped with these new torpedoes."

The secretary refuted Mr. Gardner's assertions that there had been undue delay in the completion of navy ships of various types now under construction. Labor conditions made it difficult to hasten this work, he said, but the department was doing all in its power in this regard and had plans for the 1917 ships ready before congress had passed the appropriation bill authorizing their construction.

TOO MUCH CONFIDENCE

PHELEDES NATHEN'S CONFIDENCE IN HUMAN NATURE COST HIM JUST $147

Pheledes Nathen, who is employed in one of the local mills, was flung down out of $147 yesterday afternoon. The old game of placing trust in a perfect stranger was the cause of Nathen's loss and although the matter was reported to the police, it is doubtful if the money will ever be recovered.

Nathen, who is an industrious person, had saved $147 from his wages and was going to send it to relatives in Greece. He went to the postoffice to learn how he could send the money and while passing through the corridor of the federal building he got into conversation with a stranger and the latter, for no Greek reason, suggested that he walk in the direction of the depot with the man, inasmuch as the latter couldn't seem to understand the verbal directions given him.

Upon arriving at the station, the man explained that he was going to Spain and had considerable money to exchange. He did not wish to carry it on his person while purchasing a ticket and suggested that Nathen hold it for him. The man then gave Nathen a bundle of paper which was supposed to contain $240 in money.

Upon reaching his home the money was given back to him.

At this time the man happened to think that he had forgotten something in a store nearby and at the suggestion of the man who Nathen met in the postoffice, Nathen agreed to secure the article, while the other two waited. It was suggested to Nathen that he should show confidence in the man by leaving his money with him until returning with the article.

Nathen rushed up the stairs leading from the station to Chelmsford street, and was back in a few minutes, but upon returning found that his two friends were missing. After waiting for a short time it began to dawn upon him that he had been flung and he went to the police station where he reported his loss.

TEWKSBURY SCHOOLS

The public schools of Tewksbury will open Sept. 5 after the summer vacation, and the following appointments on the teaching staff have been announced by Supt. Randall:

Miss Anna Churchill of Sanbornville is to teach grades three or four.

Miss Estelle Horton of Wakefield is to assist Miss Elin E. Flennings in grades seven and eight.

Miss Gladys Arnold is to teach in the library school, Miss Miriam Wiggin to be transferred as teacher of the grammar grade, Shaw-shen school. The primary teacher at that school has not as yet been appointed. Miss Hopkins is to be the principal at the South Training school.

HORSE KICK FATAL

Rupert E. Crockett, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Crockett of Wakefield, whose funeral took place this afternoon in the Lowell cemetery, died as a result of being kicked in the face by a horse at Wakefield, Lockjaw was the cause of death. After the accident the boy informed his father that some of his companions had suggested hitting the horse's heels with a stick to make it start, and the little fellow got too near, receiving a blow in the face when the animal kicked up its heels. Death occurred Thursday at the Massachusetts general hospital in Boston. The boy had been removed for treatment.

THE WIRELESS MEN

ARE MODEST HEROES—WAR GIVES NEW TRADITIONS OF PLUCK AND STAINCHNESS

The pluck and staunchness of the wireless operators has made a new tradition of the sea since the European war began. This wireless-room tradition is a living thing, and with every fresh disaster the youth with the receiver over his ears, who goes on quietly pressing his levers and sending out the call knows that he must live up to it.

A proper recognition of the value of the operators was made at a dinner at the Trocadero, when about a hundred of the wireless men were assembled to receive the thanks of the Marconi company.

Mr. Geoffrey Isaacs, the chairman, spoke in high appreciation of the countless lives that have been performed without the stimulus of anything spectacular throughout the long series of U-boat outrages on merchant vessels. The operators present were just the few who happened to be in London; the men who have been shipwrecked in the pursuance of their duty ran into scores. A good number who have been maimed for life by shells from submarines and in other ways are now employed at Marconi. Places have been found for them at the great wireless stations in this country.

At the dinner a modest and touching speech was made by Operator Jones of the Appam in proposing "Our brothers on the sea." The young men—most operators on ships are in the twenties—round the tables all had their stories to tell if they wished. Operators are not usually fond of talking heroes. Among them were McCormick and Leith, of the Lusitania, who went on sending out the S.O.S. in a purely conventional code, by the way. The idea that it means "Save our souls or something like that, is a joke in the service" when most people were making for the boats.

It has been quite a common experience for an operator to be shipwrecked three or four times during the war—Shrimpton, for instance, was wrecked on the Cobequid early in 1914; he was on the Kiapara when she fell into the clutches of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and was wounded on the Drummer when the ship was torpedoed in May last year. J. F. Rea had a great adventure on the ever-famous Anglo-Californian. While the submarine was circling round the liner, raining in shot and shell, Rea was calling out his call for help. After Captain Farslow had been killed on the bridge, and for the hours the terrible shelling lasted, he was at his post, and came with the ship safe into Queenstown. He has received a gold watch from the admiralty for his bravery. There are scores of stories quite as inspiring, some well known from the newspapers, others only recorded in the Marconi paper. One of the guests was Penn, of the Harma-tris, torpedoed in March—Manchester, (Eng.) Guardian.

COMMUNICATION

Editor The Sun:

Dear Sir:

I have just read your editorial on what ought to be done for the soldier's family. I have often thought of the poor old soldier who suffered all the hardships of the Civil war and of the sufferings of his widow and children. Many of them have to depend on a pension of $12 per month for a living. It is a very small pension, and the soldiers who are well paid for their services are pensioned on half pay many at an age when most laboring men are still striving hard to keep their families from starving.

Men trying hard to pay for a home to shelter them are compelled by law to pay a high tax on their little money to keep a pension to a soldier's widow and children. Some of these draw more money than the average working man gets per month. If any one can give a reason why a policeman or fireman should be pensioned unless he is permanently disabled in the service I would like to hear it. I should like to see a public official be pensioned at the expense of the tax payer. The law that allows the people's money to be paid as pension to able bodied men like ex-Supt. Moffat ought to be repealed. The laboring men, how long are they to go to allow this state of affairs to exist?

A poor laboring man like myself if disabled would have to go to the poor house as my wages will not permit me to save for a rainy day at the present rate of living.

Truly yours,

Laborer.

B. & M. IS PROSPEROUS

INCOME FOR THREE MONTHS ENDING JUNE 30, SHOWS INCREASE OF MORE THAN 400%

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, August 26.

—Further evidence of the increasing prosperity of the Boston and Maine railroad is given in the road's quarterly report for the three months ending June 30, recently filed with the public service commission.

It shows that the aggregate revenue for those three months was $2,311,761, as compared with $1,726,512 for the corresponding period of 1915; operating expenses also increased, the figure being $920,846 for 1916 and $864,856 for 1915, but even with this increase the road showed for the quarter a net revenue after taxes had been paid, of $4,191,677 for 1916, as compared with $2,552,264 for the preceding year.

The net income, after all charges had been paid, however, is the factor which to financiers tells the real story of prosperity, and this figure, for the quarter ending June 30, was $1,742,685, an increase of more than four hundred per cent. over that for the corresponding quarter of the previous year, when it was only $410,234.

ARCHBISHOP IS DEAD

MOST REV. JOHN L. SPALDING DIED YESTERDAY—WAS HEAD OF DIOCESE OF PEORIA, ILL.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 26.—Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding, who has been in failing health for the last two weeks, died here last yesterday. The end was not unexpected and his relatives were at his bedside. He was 76 years old.

Most Rev. John Lancaster Spalding was head of the diocese of Peoria, Ill., from 1877, and resigned because of ill-health Sept. 11, 1908. In the following May he was created titular archbishop of Scythopolis.

He was one of the most prominent prelates of the Roman Catholic church in the middle west, and received national-wide notice when President Roosevelt named him as one of the arbitrators to settle the anthracite coal strike in 1912.

The bishop donned the rough garb of a miner and went into the depths of the mines with fellow commissioners. He observed the conditions below and above ground, saw the men and boys at work, visited families at their homes and then went into the pulpit on Sunday and preached to the miners and their wives the gospel of fair dealing, thus making for toleration.

He was the author of several books dealing with labor topics, and also wrote several works on religious questions.

For 250 years the ancestors of Bishop Spalding lived in America, the first of the name to come to the new world being Leonard Calvert, a follower of Lord Baltimore and vice governor of Maryland.

error of the royal province of land. During the reigns of King William and Queen Elizabeth in England the Spalding family was distinguished for its loyalty to the Catholic faith.

Bishop Spalding was born in Lebanon, Ky., June 2, 1840. He was educated at Mount St. Mary's, Cincinnati, and at Louvain, Belgium, where he was ordained in 1866 and went to Rome for study in the Roman college and in 1869 returned to the United States.

He was assigned to the cathedral of Lexington, Ky., and in addition to his ordinary duties he acted as missionary to the negroes. In 1871, at his own request, he was charged with founding a parish for negroes where he left Louisville in 1872. He was paid for a church an $18,000.

He moved to New York shortly after the death of his uncle, Arch-bishop Spalding of Baltimore, and several years to writing a book of that title. He served as assistant at St. Michael's church, New York, for several years and was his position was appointed his bishop.

The funeral of the archbishop will be held Tuesday at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's cathedral, over which he ruled for years. It is expected Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore will officiate.

The Peoria diocese under Spalding's direction grew from 250 churches.

BUILDING ON THE CANAL

Locks and Canals to Start Work in Central Street—Canal Bridge Will Cost $27,000

Work will soon be started by the Locks & Canals Co. on the covering of the canal in Central street, for the erection of the new theatre on the site formerly occupied by two or three small buildings between the American hotel and Prescott street. As before stated in the columns of The Sun, a large theatre with stores and offices will be erected and a bridge will be built over the canal. The structure will be of steel, concrete and stone. It will have a frontage of 88 feet, a depth of 52 feet and a width in the rear of 54 feet. A concrete pier which will carry the bridge the full length will be erected in the center of the canal. The side walls will be of stone, reinforced with concrete. The cost of the bridge will be about $27,000.

New Apartment House

If plans proposed by Manager Nelson of the Merrimack Square theatre, are successfully carried out, the lessee of the theatre will soon erect a large apartment house at the junction of Paige and Brookings streets. Mr. Nelson, in conversation with a Sun reporter, stated that he will recommend to his employer the erection of a modern up-to-date brick building at the above mentioned corner, for he says a building of that sort is badly needed in the district. The lessee of the theatre are soon to remodel and enlarge their place of amusement and while working on the plans for the theatre addition, Mr. Nelson devised a plan of making the corner of Paige and Brookings streets a very valuable one. According to Mr. Nelson's plans the building would contain several apartments for light housekeeping and its erection would mean an expenditure of several thousand dollars, but it would be a great improvement for the locality. He will submit his plans to the lessee of the theatre for consideration in the near future.

Elias J. Ellard has started work on the erection of a two-family dwelling in front of 552 Rogers street. Each tenement will contain five rooms with pantry and bath and the house will cost about $2800.

Charles P. Witham is constructing a semi-bungalow at 59 Putnam avenue. The house will have eight rooms with pantry and bath and will cost about $2400.

The cottage at 66 Sayles street, owned by Xavier St. Pierre, is being converted into a two-tenement house, each tenement to contain four rooms with pantry and bath. Several changes and alterations will be necessary for the improvement and the cost will be about $700.

The barn at 56 Westford street, owned by W. M. Waterman, is being converted into a cottage house of six rooms at a cost of $1800.

The warehouse on the property of the Gulf Refining Co. in Tanner street, is being improved, alterations being made on the exterior and interior. An addition 18 feet and 20 feet long is also being constructed to the wagon shed and the entire improvements will cost about $1600.

Eva Dozols is having an addition constructed to her building numbered 67 Varney street, in order to make more room for the pantry and bath and also for two extra rooms. The cost of the addition will be $700.

The store at 15 Marshall street in the property of Ernest Greenberg, is being changed into an extra room for the downstairs tenement. The roof of the building is also being squared and when the alterations are finished, the house will contain two five-room tenements. The cost of the change is $400.

This living room is entered from the center of the hall into the large pedimented openings. There is a bay at the side and one at the front. Ceiling beams run across the room instead of lengthwise. This living room is 12 feet wide in the narrowest part and 17 feet deep. Suitable furniture and finish for this room would be of a dark color. Size 35 feet wide by 25 feet deep over the main part. Cost to build about $1500.

Regina Mailoux at 9-11 Race street, is being changed over to a flat roof at a cost of $250.

Rosanna Wood is having a storage shed erected in the rear of 36 Walnut street, at a cost of $125.

Other minor improvements which are being made in the city are as follows: Alterations in the interior of a store in the property of the estate of Arthur Staples at 21-23 Palmer street at a cost of $150; converting a store into rooms in the property of Thomas Frost, at the corner of First and Reed streets, at a cost of $10; alterations and the building of an addition to the piazza of Dr. James B. O'Connor, at 188 Moore street.

REAL ESTATE DEALERS

Thomas H. Elliott, offices at 64

Central street, corner of Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week:

Contracts have been closed on the purchase and sale of a two-tenement house situated near the U. S. Cart-ridge Co's plant. The house consists of six and seven rooms each with bath, open plumbing and steam heat. The buildings occupy 2531 square feet of land and the assessment on land and buildings totals $190. The sale is effected in behalf of a local owner, the purchaser being a Lowell party who buys for personal occupancy. Names and full details will be given on the passing of final papers in the immediate future.

Final papers have been passed on the purchase and sale of the 2 1/2 story house and stable, situated at 184 Walker street. The house contains 8 rooms, is old style, but of the best of construction. Land to the amount of 4321 square feet is conveyed. The land is ideally located for green-house purposes and the owners intend to erect a large and up-to-date green-house in the immediate future. The grantor in this transaction is Lieut. George F. Waugh, U.S.A., a former resident of Lowell. The grantees are Bernard J. O'Hagan and Daniel B. Lynch.

Final papers have been passed on the purchase and sale of a 9 acre wood lot situated near Chelmsford Centre, and also tract of meadow land situated in Lowell, near the old Middlesex canal. The owners intend to operate the wood lot immediately. The grantor in this transaction is a local party. The grantees are Harry L. Parkhurst, and Francis O. Dutton, both of Chelmsford.

Belvidere Park

The Park Land Co. is making many inducements to prospective homebuyers in their propositions for land at Belvidere park, which is a fine location, being high and dry yet within a short riding distance from the center of Lowell. They are offering free deeds, insurance and plans, as well as an attractive way of making monthly payments, according to their display advertisement on this page. Agents are on the ground for the purpose of aiding the visitors with what information they desire. Home building is now becoming quite universally popular in this as well as many other cities, and might be well for those interested to visit this park.

BIG FIRE IN NASHUA
BARN AND FOUR HOUSES BURNED
—LOSS ESTIMATED AT BETWEEN $50,000 AND $75,000
NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 26.—Scores of families living in the vicinity of Kinsley street moved furniture from their homes yesterday afternoon and prepared to flee when fire swept Balcom's barn at Kinsley and Palm streets and spread to four adjoining houses.
The fire was held confined within this area, however, and no other property in the neighborhood was damaged. The loss is variously estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.
Starting in the barn, where some 20 tons of hay were stored, the fire caught almost immediately upon the four nearest houses to the barn, which were destroyed. During the fire, for which a general alarm was sounded, eight horses in the barn were rescued.

THE SPELLBINDER

With all nomination papers filed, the coming primary contests are well defined and while the republicans have one contest on the state ticket, it is not one to absorb general attention, and hence in places where there are no contests of a local nature, the republicans may be depended upon to take part in the democratic primaries even as the democrats "batted in" on the republicans one year ago. The contest for the gubernatorial nomination steps the democrats all over the state from entering into the fight on the side of the political fence. The democratic contest for governor will be waged between General Cole and Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield, the latter a former state treasurer. The third candidate has already seen fit to retire from the fight. General Cole is well known in military circles throughout the state and the militia is considered a strong asset for the candidate for public office at this particular time, though not because there is any prospect of the formation of a military party. General Cole's democracy and service of the party are unquestioned, but everything good that may be said of General Cole can also be said of Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield. The latter is very well and favorably known throughout the state. The professional election deponents assert that Mr. Mansfield has the solid labor vote of the state. He is an attorney for the American Federation of Labor and organized labor generally, and while in the state house drafted the eight-hour law, the 54 hour law for women and children, the nine hour in 11 law for street car men and the law allowing peaceful persuasion during strikes. Surely he ought to be strong with the organized labor vote, and that suggests the question as to how strong that vote may be. Throughout the state the opinion is expressed that the democrats this year have selected two particularly strong men to wage anti-primary contests, and as Governor McCall is not as popular at the present time as the party leaders would have him, there is great worry in the ranks of the republican party despite the fact that this is a presidential year when in days ago, the democrats were not allowed a "look-in".

Tufts in Town
Candidate Tufts who seeks to be district attorney was in town during the week and now the boys whom he is familiarly referring to him as "Nats" for he made a favorable impression. The district attorney contest among the republicans, according to the latest reports from around the county has resolved itself into a fight between Messrs. Tufts and Brown, with Jim Ramsay, of Lowell still faithful to Former District Attorney Higgins. That influential crowd of politicians popularly known as the "cherish bunch" are all split up between Tufts and Brown, and Billy Davis, of Cambridge, a leader of the sheriff's forces, is said to be out openly for Tufts, while many of his associates are rooting for Brown.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

Barlow and McIntyre
County Commissioner Barlow had seven nomination papers filed at Cambridge, while Mr. McIntyre, according to report didn't file any from that city, although the latter filed a sufficient number of names from Lowell and other places to insure his name going on the ballot. In the lower end of the county there is little interest in the contest for county commissioner, the republicans assuming that Mr. Barlow is to get his second term as per political history. Mr. McIntyre, not having as yet awakened the lower end voters to the fact that a real candidate is in the field, Mr. McIntyre will either have to say a lot of pleasant things or have them published in the papers in order to stir up interest in his contest in the lower end of the county, for down there they have been educated to continually in office, and only something entirely out of the usual can wake them up. Mr. Messer for instance last year woke them up to the fact that he was out against Sheriff Fairbairn while John L. Dyer made them acquainted with the fact that he was after Uncle Levi Gould's scalp. Neither of them won but they made a showing and had some fun. The republicans are firm believers in settled conditions, and it is only once in a long time that something like the progressive party comes along to disturb those conditions. Now the progressives are off the map again and Middlesex will go back to settled conditions which means that those who are in are likely to remain in, and those who are out to remain out.

Dummer Street Conditions
The buildings that formerly stood on the site of the proposed Dummer street extension have all been leveled to the ground and the last of the lumber is being removed. Within 10 days Commissioner Morse will begin the work of filling in the cellarways, bringing the area to a level with the street and making the place much more presentable in appearance than it is at present. The street cannot be finished at once as it will take some time for the filling to settle. Looking over the open area at the present time one can picture in his mind's eye how big an improvement the project will prove to be when completed.

The Cleanliness Campaign
Everybody in Lowell should take a deep personal interest in the cleanliness campaign now under way. Co-operation is needed between the individual and the civic authorities, and in fact between all hands. Co-operation is needed between the civic authorities and the promoters of the campaign. It should be general and not restricted to locality or class. Whenever and wherever conditions appear that are not strictly in accordance with cleanliness and good health, the first to discover them should be his or her share toward bringing about the remedy, without implying who is responsible for them, or for their remedy. Mayor O'Donnell and the members of the board of health, and their agent Mr. Bates are heartily in sympathy with any organizations or any individuals who are promoting cleanliness and the restoration of healthful conditions throughout the city, and will extend all the aid in their power. When the civic authorities are convinced that the parties who are interesting themselves in a movement of this kind are actuated by a sincere desire for the improvement of existing conditions, the most enthusiastic co-operation

HEAT SETS OFF ACID IN MUNITION PLANT AT NORTH WOBURN
—NONE OF EMPLOYEES INJURED
BOSTON, Aug. 26.—An explosion in the phenol works of the Merrimack Chemical company in North Woburn, shortly before midnight last night, shook buildings in Woburn and attracted the entire fire department of that city to the scene.
The building in which the explosion occurred was not afire by the explosion and the flames threatened for a time to spread to the other nearby works of the immense ammunition plant, where munitions for the allies have been made for more than a year.
The explosion happened in one of the acid tanks and is said by one of the officials of the company to have been due to an excessively high temperature.
None of the employees at the works was injured. The fire was under control within a short time after the arrival of the fire department.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONT

While Resisting Allied Advance Along Somme the Germans are Launch- ing Strong Attacks in Other Sectors —Penetrate the French Trenches in Champagne—Attacks Repulsed, Says Paris—Bulgars Defeat Serbs

The Bulgarians have attacked and captured the Greek fort of St. Nikola, after killing its commander, Changas, and the entire garrison which offered spirited resistance, says a Saloniki despatch to the Matin. The despatch is dated August 23, and was delayed.

Fierce Fighting
While determinedly resisting the allied advance on the Somme front in northern France, the Germans are launching strong attacks in other sectors of the western battle line, the latest offensive movement reported being in the Champagne region.

Penetrated French Positions
Near Tahure, in the Champagne, is the scene of some of the heaviest fighting in the French offensive since September. German troops last night charged French positions and succeeded in penetrating them. Subsequently they were driven out. Paris declares.

This attack was followed quickly by an assault by the Germans on the point of the St. Mihiel salient, southeast of Verdun, which the French repulsed by a counter attack and was carried out simultaneously with the attacks in the region of Verdun itself and along the Somme front.

Heavy Bombardment
At Verdun, the point selected for the offensive movement was that northeast of the fortress between Fleury and Thiaumont, where the French scored through their subterranean tunnels to a heavy bombardment before the assault, were unable to make any gain, according to Paris.

Germans Again Repulsed
On the Somme, the German counter attack was directed at Hill 121, near Maurepas, past which village the French have hammered their way in the attempt to envelop Clercy and clear the road north of the river to Peronne. This attack also was repulsed, the Paris bulletin declares.

Important Victory for Bulgars
Sofia reports an important victory over the Serbians on the Bulgarian right wing and announces that on the other flank the Bulgarians have reached the Greek Aegean coast.

Rumania Rushes War Plans
Balkan political developments are being followed with intense interest, particularly the attitude of Rumania. Despatches today indicate further military preparations by this kingdom, including an increase of the extraordinary credit for the army by 200,000,000 francs.

Russians Checked
Vienna claims the checking of Russian attempts to advance in the Carpathians toward the Hungarian border, but Petrograd asserts that further gains in this region have been made by the Russians.

On the remainder of the eastern front the Russians have attempted few aggressive movements recently and the situation is unchanged in its essentials.
The Austrian war office also reports the lessening of the pressure which the Italians received have been exerting in the Dolomite region on the Austro-Italian front.

The British admiralty announces the torpedoing of a British naval auxiliary in the North sea involving the loss of 23 men.

MEETING TO PROTEST AGAINST OCCUPATION OF GREEK TERRITORY BY BULGARS

SALONIKI, Aug. 26.—A large popular meeting was held here last night to protest against the occupation of Greek territory by Bulgarians. It was followed by a demonstration for Venizelos and the shipping of the national hymn. The crowd then marched to the headquarters of Gen. Sarraïl, the entente commander and sang the "Marseillaise." A formal protest against the Bulgarian occupation was drawn up and left with the prefect of police.

Despatches from Athens say the government is much concerned about the liberal party manifestation which is being organized for Sunday and threatens to hold counter demonstrations of supporters of the king.

SPANISH PARTY APPROVES PORTU-GAL'S INTERVENTION IN WAR

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The national convention of the Spanish reformist party, says a Havas despatch from Oviedo has decided to send a commission headed by Melquiades Alvarez, the reformist leader, to Lisbon to express the party's approval of Portugal's intervention in the war. The commission, the despatch adds, will then proceed to Paris to give the entente allies assurance of Spanish sympathies. The convention decided also to begin a campaign in favor of closer relations between Spain and the entente powers.

SERBIANS DEFEATED AFTER HEAVY FIGHTING ON MACEDO-NIA FRONT

SOFIA, August 26.—Via London—After severe fighting on the Bulgarian right wing, on the Macedonian front the Serbians have been defeated with very heavy losses and compelled to retire, the war office announced today. Eighteen consecutive attacks were made by the Serbians.

On the eastern end of the front Bulgarian forces have reached the Greek Aegean coast and put British cavalry detachments to flight. Several villages have been occupied by the Bulgarians.

STRIKE SHUTS PLANT

FALL RIVER, Aug. 26.—Fifteen hundred employees of the American Printing Co. are idle in Fall River.

The decision to close followed the strike of 250 backenders and employees of the printing and calendar rooms. The strikers demanded a 10-hour day at the same wages they are now receiving for 12 hours' work or a proportional increase in wages for their present working hours.

One hundred employees of the Algonquin Print works also went out on strike yesterday for higher wages and shorter hours of labor.

DISCUSS REVENUE BILL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The senate resumed discussion of the revenue bill today. Senator Gronna, republican, introduced the democratic convention declaration for economy, charging that the party had piled up appropriations for the last fiscal year greater than any other in the country's history except during the Civil war.

British Naval Auxiliary Sunk in North Sea—Commander and 22 Men Lost—80 Saved

LONDON, Aug. 26. 2.35 p. m.—The torpedoing in the North sea of a British naval auxiliary with the loss of 23 men, was announced officially today.

Eighty-seven men were saved. The announcement follows:—The boarding steamer Duke of Albany, was torpedoed and sunk in the North sea on Thursday by an enemy submarine. The commander and 22 men were lost. Eleven officers and 15 ratings were saved.

The British merchant steamer Duke of Albany, which probably is the craft alluded to in the official statement, was a vessel of 1907 tons gross, built in 1907, and owned in Glasgow.

WASHBURN WINS MATCH

WON MEADOW CLUB SINGLES TENNIS CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP FROM CLOTHIER

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Watson M. Washburn of New York won the Meadow club singles tennis cup championship here today by defeating William J. Clothier of Philadelphia, former national champion in the final match of the tournament. The score was 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Washburn won the contest through more effective play at the base line and the net. He out-volleyed Clothier, sharp cross cut strokes and fast drives down the lines placing the veteran at his mercy. Washburn's pronounced weakness was overhand, his strokes in this department of the tournament.

Clothier made his best bid for honors in the second set, but a volley of placement points by Washburn in the last games ended his hopes. In the last set Clothier was clearly outplayed. Washburn was winner of the tournament a year ago.

ANOTHER FISH STORY

A party of 35 citizens of Braintree under the supervision of Daniel Fox, enjoyed a deep sea fishing trip at Swampscott Thursday. The party left the neighboring town at 6 a. m. in an automobile truck and returned to their respective homes late in the evening. The fishermen spent a most enjoyable day aboard Capt. Healey's sail boat and returned with a big catch.

CORRUPT PRACTICES BILL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Senator Owen under another futile effort in the senate today to get consideration of the corrupt practices bill. Senator Smoot, republican, objected, but Senator Borah declared the republican leaders could bind him to no legislative program and said he desired to vote on both the corrupt practices and immigration bills before adjournment. Senators Reed and Sanbury, democrats, declared they aided Senator Owen in an effort to get the corrupt practices bill before the senate, and that precipitated a flutter over the democratic program for adjournment next week.

Senator Reed declared the republican leaders did not want to pass the corrupt practices bill, because the aid would be in control of the party and the candidate would a corrupt election. Indications were for a close fight over Senator Owen's motion when he makes it.

FREIGHT WRECK

Traffic of B. & M. R. R. Tied Up for Several Hours at Waltham

WALTHAM, Aug. 26.—Traffic on the main line and the Watertown branch of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad was tied up for several hours today as a result of a freight wreck. An east-bound freight train was derailed at a switch near the Waltham station to prevent a collision with an approaching westbound freight on the Watertown branch. The engine took the derails but the tender and three cars were swung sidelong across the tracks, tearing up rails, disarranging the automobile switching system and blocking all traffic. No one was hurt.

THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN ST. MARY'S
SCHOOL, LAWRENCE—BROTHER
BENEDICT COMES TO LOWELL

LAWRENCE, Aug. 25.—Changes in the teaching corps of St. Mary's Boys' school have been announced and will go into effect when the school reopens on Monday, Sept. 11. In all three mem- bers of last year's faculty have been transferred and their places will be taken by other brothers who will come here from other places.

The changes are as follows: Brother Eugenius to St. John's school, Newton Highlands; Brother Alexis to Wichita, Kan.; and Brother Benedict to Lowell. The first named brother's place will be taken by Brother Joseph of St. Joseph's school, Detroit, Mich.; the second by Brother Prosper of St. John's high school, Worcester; and the third by Brother DeSales of St. Paul's academy, Philadelphia, Pa.

The remainder of the corps will be as follows: Brother Joseph, superior; and Brothers Lorenzo, Harold, Jovita, Ernest and Rogatus, who were all lo- cated here last year.

Brother Benedict, was formerly con- nected with the Lowell school, and he was a great favorite here. He organized several societies while in Lowell and was director of some of the school's best athletic teams.

WELCOME TO VETERANS

KANSAS CITY PEOPLE THROW
OPEN THEIR DOORS TO UNION
VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—Kansas City house-holders welcomed into their homes today, great numbers of the union veterans of the civil war here to attend the annual encamp- ment of the Grand Army of the Re- public. Between 15,000 and 20,000 vet- erans have reached the city and be- cause capacity of hotels and boarding houses was taxed and because many of the old soldiers are in moderate circumstances, the citizens were asked by the local committee to take care of as many of the visitors as they could. Besides the veterans quartered in private homes, others were assigned in a large dance hall fitted out with cols. Other temporary homes have been arranged.

Convention hall, the place for the formal meetings of the veterans, has been divided into booths in which scattered members of regiments may re-unite. One of the booths has been turned over to the pension bureau at Washington, at request of E. C. Tie- man, acting commissioner, and in it questions pertaining to pensions will be answered.

A thousand Boy Scouts will act as guides and aids to the veterans while they are here. Under the direction of Dr. James H. Sowerby, chief scout executive, they have been trained to serve the soldiers in every way. Special training in first aid work has been given the youngsters.

"Whenever you speak to a veteran, call him 'comrade,'" said Dr. Sowerby in his final instructions. "They are keen for helping the old men." Dr. Sowerby said, "and I can imagine the stories the veterans will tell them. It will be good training for the boys and should be of great service to the men of the Grand Army."

COMPANY K ASSOCIATES

The Company K association of the Sixth regiment, comprised of veterans of the civil war from this city and the surrounding towns, held its annual meeting in the Unitarian church at Chelmsford center today. Although the ranks of the association have thinned gradually since the war days the veterans who assembled today wore the same happy faces and talked over their experiences in the civil war as they did on the occasion of their first meeting. At 12.30 o'clock a dinner was served by some of the women of the town. It was a real old fashioned dinner and the veterans relished it. Besides the dinner there was a business meeting presided over by President Jacquith and speaking by some of the members of the association and guests.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Broadway Social club will play the strong Old Timers of Pawtucket- ville on the North common tomorrow. As both teams are playing fast ball a good game is expected.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"On Trial," which will be the open- ing attraction of the Emerson Players at the Opera House, Labor day week, is the biggest dramatic sensation that has been offered in this stage of the city in a century and that it will pack the Opera House to its very doors is certain, for, since the announcement of the opening of this popular play- house and the coming of the Emerson Players, there has been a steady de- mand for seats for Labor day and for the entire week, quite a number of the orders being for the season also. Pat- rons should take advantage of the opportunity now offered to place their names on the subscription list and have the same seats held for the perfor- mances each week.

Evon Miller who will play the leading role for the Emerson Players is certain to give a wonderful performance. Pri- vious to signing a year contract with the management of the Emerson Players, he received a flattering offer from Colman and Harris to appear as a western comedy but declined as he preferred to remain in stock to travel- ing throughout the country. Juez Rugan is also sure to make here a tremendous favor, and the Emerson players of Lowell in this play while Lowell audiences will also have a chance to see Rose Morrison, Jean Hayden, George Howard, James T. Galloway, Millard Vincent and other new players for the first time. Frank Wright, Gertrude Shirley and other players who appear in the play will be given a great ovation.

"On Trial" is a play with a punch and something that every man, woman and child in Lowell should see. For two solid years this play packed the Candler theatre in New York City, turned thousands away at every per- formance, and it is a play that has been in Chicago and broke all records for wonderful engagements in Boston with a great run at the Tremont theatre.

The box office opens Tuesday morning at nine o'clock here to get your seats. If you can't be there, telephone 461-00 and he will give you a ticket. Your friends are com- ing—that is—everyone within a radius of twenty miles and you don't want them telling you all about the show. See it yourself and be happy.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
There have been many realistic bat- tles staged in moving pictures, but until "The Primrose" now being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre, was produced, a battle under the most thrilling combat ever put on, even though the real fight is not seen but is imagined. As St. Hart, a Blackfoot Indian, engage in a death struggle in mid-stream. Both go under the water, and the spectator sees only the surface. The suspense is thrilling in the extreme. But there are many other things in this great, stirring pic- ture which will appeal to all sorts of audiences. The comedy of the closing half of the week is uproariously funny. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle does some of his best work in "The Water- Ball" and all who have seen the pic- ture pronounce it a model for fun- making. In addition there are the latest-imparted cartoons and "Out of the Flossam" For Sunday Robert Edeson in "The Cavo Man" will be the leading picture.

"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?"

"No children admitted" is the sign that stands out in the lobby of the B. F. Keith theatre, where "Where Are My Children?" is to be the big attraction, beginning Monday, August 28th and continuing throughout the week. No children admitted, is the sign that stands out in the lobby of the B. F. Keith theatre, where "Where Are My Children?" is to be the big attraction, beginning Monday, August 28th and continuing throughout the week.

"Where Are My Children?" is a triumph of mother love, a tribute to fatherhood and a story of a boy who never before reflected. The great Tyrona Power, great of physical and mental mould, supported by a tremendous cast of actors, chosen to interpret it—Advertisement.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"The Unborn," the daring birth con- trol play, which has attracted hun- dreds of patrons to the Merrimack Square theatre during the past five days will be presented at this cool theatre today for the last time. Readers of this who have not at- tended this spectacular play which vividly, yet truly exposes the dangers of the practice of birth control now rec- ommended by a man of science. It is that this day does not pass without having witnessed this daring picture. Readers of this who have not at- tended this spectacular play which vividly, yet truly exposes the dangers of the practice of birth control now rec- ommended by a man of science. It is that this day does not pass without having witnessed this daring picture.

"The Unborn" will be in Eastern which means a big expense. The truth is forcibly given home in "The Unborn" and the facts which are happening in the world every day are truly por- trayed in this picture. The betrayal of an innocent girl, the birth of her son, her tragic death, the success of social leaders to quick doctors who malpractice, young erring girls also patronizing these doctors, these and many other topics of great importance to all who want to see the birth control picture, go to make up one of the most needed stories of all time. "The Unborn" will be shown twice this evening, 7.30 and 9 o'clock. If you have not seen the picture before, Children under 16 years of age are not admitted.

A change of program will take place tomorrow when the Sunday concert will be given. It is needless to state that the same general excellence which has marked the bill of these deli- cious Sunday entertainments in the past can also be said of this concert which will be given continuously tomorrow from 2 until 10 p. m. The headline of this concert is "Lord Loveland Dis- covers the World with the violin." Arthur Maude in the leading role. A play deals with the adventures of a typical English noble on his initial visit to this country. The play is full of laughter and interesting situations. Many other plays that please will also be shown.—Advertisement.

Secretary Daniels Says President Kept Country Out of War

JACKSONVILLE, Me., Aug. 26.—Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy, declared in a speech here today at a Methodist camp meeting that the American people owed President Wilson a debt for having kept the country out of the war in Europe and the conflict in Mexico. Secretary Daniels said:

"It is the easiest thing in the world for an executive to send a plume to his country into war. But it requires statesmanship to steer the ship of state through turbulent waters and whirlpools on its fixed course. In these days of crisis an able navigator would have sent the craft upon the rocks."

"For two years the American people have been tense in their interest, hoping that their president would continue to be a safe pilot and Christian men and women have prayed that he might be guided by the rules of the universe, so that, without sacrifice of American rights, peace might reign on this continent."

"There has never been any reason why this country should engage in the war across the seas. I say this with due regard to the opinions of those who have been indulging in carping criticism because the president did not send an army and navy to engage in war with Germany because the troops if that country entered Belgium in the early days of the war."

Secretary Daniels spoke of the big navy as a guarantor of American principles, saying: "We are not a belligerent nation. We wish that every nation would join us in submitting all controversies to arbitration. There must be an international tribunal to hear and settle international differences with power to enforce its decrees. Until the nations come to this wise course to nation can afford to reduce armament, or fail to be prepared to defend to right to be free and pursue its own policy. No matter how peacefully inclined America is, as long as there are powerful nations coveting to straddle earth our only safety is in preparedness."

"I am ambitious that my country shall have a strong and powerful navy. It must have nothing else while other nations are armed, but I hope the day is near at hand when international arbitration with power to enforce its decrees will make it unnecessary to impose a tax of three quarters of a billion dollars for the army and navy. The navy bill points the way to in and to world wide competitive building, and I hope and pray all the navy building nations will join with us in this much to be desired federation of nations which will usher in a century of peace where the war drum will be heard no longer."

LOCAL TELEPHONE GIRLS WILL GET RAISE—SCHEDULE MORE THAN ASKED BY UNION

By a new schedule granted to operators by the New England Telephone & Telegraph company yesterday, many girls in the local exchange will benefit considerably. With the exception of operators just out of training school, all will receive an increase. For several classes of operators the company has made the wage higher than asked by the union.

The schedule also grants an increase of $1 a week for senior operators over that paid to regular operators. The supervisors will begin at a wage of $15.50 and receive a raise of 50 cents each six months until they reach the maximum of $17.

The schedule, which is retroactive from last Sunday, was unanimously endorsed by the union. The new schedule, the scale under which the operators have been working and that asked by the union's committee are given below:

| | Present | New | Union's |

NEW FIGHTING SYSTEM

GERMANS CLAIM FRENCH HAVE FORCES TO EXTERMINATE GERMANS FOUND IN TRENCHES

BERLIN, Aug. 26. (Wireless to Sayville).—The charges that the French have an organized force whose duty it is to exterminate all Germans found in captured trenches is made in an official German agency statement today, which says:

"The French some time ago introduced a new fighting system, the most cowardly and flagrant violation of the laws of war developed up to this time. Coincident reports confirm the fact, not known until now that without exception, special detachments have been formed with express orders to remain behind in captured trenches and exterminate all Germans yet alive. These troops are called 'Nettoyeurs' (Cleaners or sweepers). Their equipment is not the rifle, cartridges and bayonet of other soldiers, but the revolver, knife and hand grenade."

"When the French storming column succeeds in crossing a trench, the 'Nettoyeurs' enter that trench and start the work of clearing the trenches of all the living. Hand grenades are thrown in the dugouts, where there are often wounded men. Those who escape the hand grenades are killed by revolver and knife when they attempt to come out. This terrible slaughter is continued from man to man. Every man, whether wounded or not, whether armed or not, is mercilessly stabbed or shot."

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

At a meeting of the strikers of the U. S. Cartridge Co., held last evening at A.O.H. hall, the members of the Federal Workers of the U. S. Co. unanimously voted not to accept the proposed increase offered by Supt. Cahill of the U. S. C. Co. The meeting, which was largely attended, was presided over by President John Regan, while Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sproule, Joseph Murphy and others addressed the gathering. Other meetings of the organization were held today on the South common.

A meeting of the committee on sports for the Labor day celebration was held last evening in Trades & Labor hall and Bob Keeler was appointed official umpire for the baseball game to be held under the auspices of the committee. It was stated last evening that in order to complete all arrangements for the celebration, a special meeting of the Trades & Labor council will be called by Frank Warlock, president of the council and chief marshal of the parade.

Regular meetings were held by the following organizations last evening: Bricklayers and Local 138, Machinists.

Plans for the notification of President Wilson of his renomination were announced after a meeting of the general committee appointed to arrange for the event. The main ceremony will take place at Shadow Lawn, Long Branch, N. J., at 4 o'clock on Sept. 2, and will be preceded at 1 o'clock by a luncheon given by President and Mrs. Wilson to the notification and reception committee members and their wives. It was announced at democratic national committee headquarters in New York that the public generally will be welcome to Shadow Lawn on Sept. 2. Written invitations have gone out only to members of the national committee, the delegates to the national convention and democratic leaders, but, without invitations, all admirers of Mr. Wilson may attend. Arrangements have been made to accommodate between 12,000 and 15,000 persons. Senator O'Reilly, as chairman of the St. Louis convention, will make the speech of notification, and President Wilson will respond.

Value of Manufactured Products in State Shows Big Increase

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 26.—The value of Massachusetts' manufactured products increased more than $150,000,000 in the five years between the census of 1909 and that of 1914, according to figures made public today by Charles F. Gettemy, director of the bureau of statistics.

In 1909 it was found that the manufactures of the state were valued at $1,490,529,000, while in 1914 the figure was $1,641,373,000. More than $100,000,000 of this, however, was represented in the cost of materials, this figure in 1914 having been $913,284,000, as compared with $830,785,000 in 1909. Another $40,000,000 of the increase went to the wage earners, the total amount paid in wages in 1914 being $241,310,000, and in 1909, $201,173,000. Thus it will be seen that less than $100,000,000 of the increase was due to the manufacturers to meet all other increased expenses.

Boots and shoes, the figures show, furnished the greatest productive value of any single industry, with a total of $258,158,000; if, however, cotton goods, with $197,322,000, is combined with other than raw, $10,951,000, of 1909, they will show an aggregate of $327,670 for the textile industry. Twenty-five other industries furnished products valued at more than $10,000,000 each, these being: Automobiles, $11,159,000; boots and shoes, rubber, $23,739,000; bread and other bakery products, $33,309,000; carpets and rugs, other than raw, $10,951,000; men's clothing, $19,611,000; women's clothing, $13,983,000; confectionery, $29,131,000; cordage and twine, and lute and linen goods, $24,323,000; cutlery and tools, $12,974,000; electrical machinery, apparatus, and supplies, $13,869,000; foundry and machine shop products, $35,638,000; furniture and refrigerators, $14,281,000; illuminating and heating gas, $15,742,000; hosiery and knit goods, $17,412,000; iron and steel, $11,376,000; jewelry, $14,116,000; leather, $45,265,000; malt liquors, $18,608,000; lumber and timber products, $23,013,000; paper and wood pulp, $48,353,000; paper goods, $18,580,000; printing and publishing, $36,198,000; silk and silk goods, $10,577,000; slaughtering and meat-packing, $31,446,000.

Several industries showed wonderful growth between the census of 1909 and that of 1914, some of the most notable being the following: Bicycle, motorcycles and parts, from $2,000,000 to $7,021,000; confectionery, $15,268,000 to $20,131,000; cordage, twine, etc., $16,000,000 to $24,323,000; dyestuffs and extracts, $753,000 to $1,874,000; electrical machinery, apparatus and supplies, $28,143,000 to $48,369,000; gas, heating and illuminating, $11,974,000 to $15,752,000; distilled liquors, $2,758,000 to $4,790,000; surgical appliances and artificial limbs, $816,000 to $1,512,000; toys and games, $1,751,000 to $2,536,000.

There were also many industries which showed a falling off in productive value, among these being: Agricultural implements, $847,900 to $552,000; automobiles, $11,359,000 to $11,159,000; brass and bronze products, $8,047,000 to $5,959,000; brick and tile, $1,385,000 to $1,639,000; buttons, $2,500 to $2,230,000; carpets and rugs, $12,120,000 to $10,951,000; carriages and wagons, $3,185,000 to $2,821,000; coffins, burial cases and undertakers' goods, $941,000 to $789,000; flour mill and grist mill products, $1,632,000 to $2,511,000; fur goods, $356,000 to $283,000; gas and electric fixtures, $1,309,000 to $1,408,000; fur and felt hats, $3,748,000 to $565,000; straw hats, $5,524,000 to $5,762,000; iron and steel, steel works and rolling mills, $11,566,000 to $11,376,000; jewelry, $18,211,000 to $14,176,000; leather goods, $1,372,000 to $4,023,000; lime, $864,000 to $17,000; marble and stone work, $5,504,000 to $6,734,000; musical instruments, $9,106,000 to $5,214,000; silverware and plated ware, $5,529,000 to $5,513,000; wire, $9,580,000 to $8,389,000; and woolen, worsted and felt goods and wool hats, $141,957,000 to $130,318,000.

Boots and shoes and cotton goods pay practically the same amounts in wages, the former showing $241,310,000 in 1914, and the latter $201,173,000. Thirty-seven other industries paid more than $1,000,000 in wages, these including: Automobiles, $1,015,000; bicycles, motorcycles and parts, $1,567,000; rubber boots and shoes, $1,468,000; fancy and paper boxes, $1,586,000; brass and bronze products, $1,063,000; bread and other bakery products, $1,366,000; carpets and rugs, $2,899,000; cars and general shop construction of steam railroad companies, $1,391,000; men's clothing, $3,551,000; women's clothing, $2,368,000; confectionery, $2,715,000; copper, tin and sheet iron products, $1,641,000; cordage, twine, etc., $2,219,000; cutlery and tools, $2,902,000; electrical machinery, $1,631,000; fancy articles, $1,331,000; foundry and machine shop products, $28,117,000; furniture and refrigerators, $14,281,000; illuminating and heating gas, $2,141,000; straw hats, $1,181,000; hosiery and knit goods, $1,737,000; iron and steel, $2,697,000; jewelry, $3,853,000; leather, $3,515,000; malt liquors, $1,992,000; lumber and timber products, $5,075,000; marble and stone work, $2,588,000; musical instruments, $3,509,000; optical goods, $1,350,000; paper and wood pulp, $7,549,000; printing and publishing, $13,268,000; silk and silk goods, $2,092,000; silverware and plated ware, $1,468,000; slaughtering and meat-packing, $31,110,000; stationery, $2,218,000; tobacco manufactures, $3,110,000; wire, $2,065,000; wirework, $1,079,000; woolen and worsted goods, etc., $27,563,000.

FOR CLEANUP CAMPAIGN

MAYOR AND POLICE DEPARTMENT GET TOGETHER—PATROLMEN RECEIVE ORDERS

Late yesterday afternoon, Mayor O'Donnell, Agent Lutz and Supt. Welch of the police department, held a conference in the mayor's office in relation to the cleanup campaign started by the mayor and at the close of the conference, His Honor issued the following statement:

"At my suggestion the superintendent came to my office and presented also at the time was Agent Bates of the health department. I intimated to the superintendent that I was not thoroughly satisfied that he was giving me the co-operation that ought to be given. I called attention to the fact that after the sending of a letter to him, I had received no reply whatever. In that letter I asked him to communicate to all the officers my desire that special attention be paid to back streets, courts, etc., and to have them report on conditions as they found them.

"Supt. Welch informed me that he had communicated to the men my desire in the matter, but that only one officer in the entire department had reported on any conditions found, and that was Officer Lennon.

"I then talked to the superintendent about urging the men to do more, to show a greater interest in the cleanup business. I instructed him to notify all patrolmen that hereafter, except in specific cases, they shall not use the street cars in going from box to box while on duty, nor shall they stop to engage in conversation with persons along their routes, except upon matters of business. If these practices are stopped, I am confident that the patrolmen will have more opportunity to become familiar with all conditions on their respective routes, and to become better acquainted with the needs and requirements of the districts which they patrol, and for the good order of which they are responsible. The city is paying its patrolmen $3 per day for eight hours, with two days off in 30 without loss of pay, and two weeks' vacation, and in return is entitled to expect the best of service from them."

Superintendent Welch states that he would endeavor to emphasize to the men of the department, at evening roll call, the desire of the mayor for thorough co-operation in this matter of cleanup.

At police roll call last evening, Supt. Welch spoke to the members of the department in part as follows:

"A week or more ago I read to you a letter from the mayor, instructing you to make inspections of the alleys and passageways on your beats and report to the board of health, through the department, any unclean or unhealthful spots found. Thus far not one of the members of these shifts has reported a case. It is your duty as much as it is the duty of the board of health to see that the city ordinance is lived up to and therefore you are expected to report such cases. Judging from the reports heard by the general public, some members must be neglecting their duty. If such is found to be the fact in the future I will have a complaint made against them and they will be dealt with by the law."

The superintendent also took up on the matter of automobile traffic, the abuse of sidewalk conversations on the part of the officers, the riding from one box to another and the inspection of life saving apparatus along Lowell's waterways.

GREAT BEAR WRECKED

MEMBERS OF ARCTIC EXPEDITION LANDED SAFELY ON ST. MATTHEWS ISLAND

ON BOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER McCULLOCH, Behring sea, Aug. 26, via wireless to Seattle.—The power schooner Great Bear carrying the Arctic expedition headed by John Borden of Chicago and Captain Louis Lane of Seattle, was wrecked on a pinnacle rock of Behring sea Aug. 30. The vessel was a total loss, but the entire party landed safely on St. Matthews Island, where they were found yesterday by the McCulloch.

The members of the party aboard the Great Bear were able to land tents and provisions on St. Matthews island, and lived comfortably 15 days until the McCulloch, which had been sent to come to search for the vessel, found them.

MRS. McADOO BETTER

SPRINGFIELD LAKE, N. J., Aug. 26.—Mrs. William G. McAdoo, wife of the secretary of treasury and daughter of President Wilson, who is confined to her summer home suffering with what her physicians describe as "a slight attack of typhoid fever" is reported today as doing nicely. Mrs. McAdoo has been indisposed for about a week.

ALLEGED WHITE SLAVERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—District Attorney Swann announced today that he had assigned one of his assistants to make a special investigation of evidence that manufacturers here are employing women to attract buyers who come to New York from all parts of the country. Mr. Swann said that he had unearthed enough facts to convince him that men who induce women to meet buyers may be indicted as white slavers.

The district attorney's attention was called to this alleged practice among certain manufacturers by the formal complaint made by one business man against another charging him with having enticed the complainant's wife into an evil life.
